Airing Of China Question In U.N. Opposed By U.S.

India's Move "Shocks" Knowland

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) tonight assailed India on a charge of helping the Soviet Union campaign to bring Red China into the U.N. He made his charges as the General Assembly bogged down in debate on that controversial question.

The 79-nation Assembly, wearied by a day of debate on its agenda, suddenly adjourned at 10:57 p.m. EST with several speakers yet to be heard on the issue of having a formal debate on Red China.

The United States, aided by Britain and several members of the Commonwealth, fought against the demand of India and the Soviet Union for a full-dress debate on the subject.

Knowland, a member of the U.S. delegation to the Assembly, issued his statement just before the adjournament. The delegates will continue the fight tomorrow and hope for a vote during the day.

"I have been shocked that India and its delegation leader V. K. Krishna Menon have apparently become the floor leader for the Soviet drive to bring Communist China into the United Nations," Knowland said in a statement.

"The member states should not overlook the unchallenged fact that Communist China was the aggressor in Korea and was so declared by this organization," he added.

"Communist China is now in violation of the Korean armistice and is still in occupation of North Korea.

"Nor should the members overlook the fact that when the United Nations was for the first time calling on its membership to form a collective defense force to resist the Communist invasion of Korea it was the United States who contributed 90 per cent of the manpower and suffered 140,000 casualties, including 35,000 American dead."

Earlier, the Assembly decided to debate South Africa's racial policies again this year despite a strong hint that South Africa will walk out of the sessions.

Tito Denounces Stalinist Policy In, Out Of Soviet

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 15 (AP)—President Tito has unloaded a scorching blast at Stalinists inside and outside the Soviet Union. He blames them for the Hungarian revolt, and declares it was "a fatal error" to use Soviet troops to bring Hungary to heel.

He asserted, in a speech to a Communist party meeting in Pula four days ago and made public today, that there is a sharp split in the Kremlin high command, with men remaining "who still stand on Stalin's positions."

For the first time, Tito took the lid off his series of secret talks with Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev and other leading Russians recently in Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

Kremlin Split Substantiated

His speech amounts to the strongest support yet for reports that have swept the West about a split in the Kremlin, with Khrushchev leading one wing and former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov the other.

Tito did not mention names but he said he believes the de-Stalinists—this means the Khrushchev wing—are gaining, or at least were gaining at the time of Tito's last visit to the Soviet Union in October.

The Yugoslav president argued that his policies—favoring a national communism independent of the Kremlin—had nothing to do with the revolt in Hungary. He blamed it all on Stalinist policies.

"Fatal Error"

And, he said, the decision to call in Soviet troops there was "a fatal error."

He said responsibility for the use of Soviet troops rests with Ernoe Geroe, the now ousted Hungarian Communist party boss.

"We never did advise the use of the army," Tito said, "not even when they came into a difficult situation."

Mexican Plane Crashes, Burns; 23 Listed Dead

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 15 (AP) — A Mexican airline said one of its planes, carrying 24 persons crashed and burned today near Puerta Somoza on Nicaragua's Pacific Coast. Reports reaching the line's Miami office said one person survived.

George Monteiro, vice president of Aerovias Guest, said he was informed from Panama that a Nicaraguan helicopter had evacuated "one seriously injured person to Managua and established the plane's identify as a Guest aircraft."

Monteiro said at Miami the plane, Flight 201, was en route from Panama to Mexico City and carried 19 passengers and a crew of five.

He pressed his Panama office for identities of those aboard the four-engined DC4 aircraft.

Settlement Reached

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15 (AP) — Spokesmen for the publishers of the city's three big daily newspapers and the Cleveland Newspaper Guild said tonight they had reached agreement on terms of new contracts replacing those which expired Oct. 31.

ILA Strikes In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—The powerful International Longshoremen's Assn. struck the Port of New York at midnight tonight and issued strike calls for all other ports on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Involved in the walkout are 25,000 dockworkers in New York. The strike call also went out to 35,000 other union members in ports stretching from Portland, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

Effects of the strike brought operations of the Port of New York, the world's greatest seaport, to a virtual standstill. A spokesman for the longshoremen's union estimated that 54 ships docked in New York would be tied up immediately.

The strike calls went out as ILA negotiators still were meeting with representatives of the New York Shipping Assn., spokesmen for 170 shipping and stevedore firms.

Hungarians To Continue Their Strike

Workers Insisting Nagy Return; Kadar Rejects Neutrality

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 15 (AP)—Budapest's industrial workers, who bitterly fought Russian tanks and troops, voted today to continue their general strike. They vowed they would strike until they win their demands for free elections and independence from Moscow.

They insist, first of all, on the return to office of former Premier Imre Nagy, who favors free elections, freedom from Russian domination and a policy of neutrality for Hungary. The workers also demand that Soviet troops leave Hungary as soon as possible "in the interest of friendship with the Soviet Union."

Kadar Rejects Neutrality

A few hours before the vote, Russia's choice as premier of Hungary, Janos Kadar, rejected neutrality as a future policy for the nation and refused any negotiations with Nagy as long as Nagy remains in the protection of the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest.

Kadar's broadcast showed clearly he has no intention of walking out of the Soviet-dominated Warsaw Pact or giving up the close ties with Moscow which set off the three-week revolution. He rejected demands for neutrality for Hungary, saying it was only "wishful thinking as long as there are people who want war."

"We demand neutrality in vain," he said, "when imperialists and counterrevolutionaries spit on our neutrality."

Fears Red Defeat In Election

Kadar's response to workers' demands for a free ballot was vaguely worded. He said he was in favor of "free" elections, with more than one party participating, at a later date if this did not destroy the Communist system in Hungary; but he added he feared the Communist party would have to expect "thorough defeat" in honest multiparty elections.

Budapest's Central Council of Workers, representing all industrial workers in this capital, voted to continue the general strike at a meeting in the Budapest Tramway Co. building.

Arab Leaders Issue Warning

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Nov. 15 (AP)—Leaders of eight Arab nations announced agreement today to break off all relations with Britain and France and consider use of force unless British, French and Israeli troops leave Egypt.

A three-day summit conference of Arab chiefs of state and their representatives ended with a public display of unity behind Egypt's President Nasser and produced a virtual ultimatum to Britain and France.

Top leaders of Iraq, Jordan, Syria, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya convened here Tuesday. Nasser was represented by Egypt's ambassador to Lebanon, making it a full meeting of the nine-nation Arab League membership.

The Arab chiefs announced they had agreed that the Suez Canal problem would be considered separately from the "aggressions against Egypt."

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 16 (AP)—Britain today appointed Sir Francis Rundall, present consul general in New York, to be ambassador to Israel.

U.N. Peace Soldiers On Job

Arrive For Weinberger Trial

Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger (left), mother of slain infant Peter Weinberger, arrives at court in Mineola, N. Y., to attend the trial of Angelo LaMarca, charged with kidnaping her 32-day-old son last July 4. Handcuffed LaMarca (right) is led into court by a deputy sheriff. (AP Photofax)

LaMarca Duped Into Confessing Kidnap Of Baby

MINEOLA, N.Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—A detective described today how Angelo LaMarca, confronted by his weeping wife, broke down and detailed the July 4 kidnaping of little Peter Weinberger. A police ruse had first cracked through the barrier of LaMarca's stubbon denials of guilt.

Later, Detective Sgt. Edward F. Curran testified, LaMarca led police to where the child's body had lain for 51 days after it had been abandoned by the kidnaper July 5.

However, Curran added, LaMarca claimed an unnamed accomplice actually had abandoned the baby, leaving it to die by starvation and exposure. LaMarca, 31-year-old cab driver, is on trial for his life, charged with stealing and murdering the 32-day-old infant.

Earlier, in the first day of testimony at the trial, Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger, 32, the baby's mother sobbed in anguish for her lost child as she identified for a jury the clothes he wore when he was stolen.

Among other witnesses were two teen-age brothers, who swore they saw LaMarca lurking near the kidnap scene 15 minutes before Peter was taken from the patio of his Westbury, Long Island, home.

Daniel Lucas, 13, left the witness stand to point out LaMarca as the man he saw writing something while slouched in an old auto near the Weinberger home. His brother, Michael, 15 corroborated his testimony.

The state apparently intended their testimony to indicate that LaMarca may have written the ransom note while seated in the car. A note demanding $2,000 was left at the scene by the kidnaper.

The note was put in evidence, revealing for the first time that the kidnaper had threatened death to the tiny infant. It warned the parents not to go to the police and added: "I am scared stiff and will kill the baby at your first wrong move."

Curran told of a long interrogation in which LaMarca finally was duped into admitting the kidnaping. Curran said he told LaMarca his fingerprints had been found on the baby's carriage—although actually no prints had been found.

'I didn't touch the carriage; I just pulled back the netting," Curran quoted LaMarca as blurting out.

Hungarian Troops Halt AP Newsmen

NICKELSDORF, Austria, Nov. 15 (AP)—Hungarian Communist border troops today turned back three Associated Press reporters trying to reach Budapest with Hungarian visas.

At the customs station about 20 yards inside the border, a Hungarian lieutenant told the trio—Carl Hartman, an American; Eric Waha, Austrian reporter; and Pierre Godot, a French photographer — that their visas were no longer valid because they were issued by "the old regime."

38 On Airliner Survive Crash

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 15—(INS)—A Kansas City-to-Los Angeles Trans World Airlines plane crashed while attempting an emergency landing at McCarran Field in Las Vegas today, but all 38 persons aboard—35 passengers and three crew members—escaped serious injury.

The pilot, Arthur De Fabry, 40, of Los Angeles, was released from the hospital after treatment for a sprained right knee.

The plane, a twin-engine Martin 404, had just taken off for Los Angeles, after a stop in Las Vegas, when the No. 1 engine failed.

Wintry Storm Hits Midwest

[By The Associated Press]

A wintry storm punched into the Midwest Thursday, coating highways with snow or ice, disrupting telephone communications and sending temperatures plummeting.

The storm gathered force in central Minnesota and parts of Wisconsin after laying a white carpet over Wyoming and parts of Colorado, Kansas, the Dakotas, Iowa and upper Michigan.

Storm warnings called for snow accumulations of six to eight inches in central Minnesota and four to six inches in parts of Wisconsin.

The icy blast was expected to spread across most of the Midwest by Friday bringing some sections the coldest weather of the season. The band of rain preceding the cold was expected to reach the Eastern Seaboard on Friday.

Drill Instructor Guilty On Two Cruelty Counts

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., Nov. 15 (AP)—A slender, dark-haired drill instructor, who admitted he forced young Marine recruits to stand crablike over naked bayonets as punishment for training violations, today was found guilty by a general courtmartial on two counts of cruelty to recruits.

Frederick A. Renton, 19, of New York City, had pleaded guilty to two specifications of maltreatment of recruits under his command when his trial opened Tuesday. He was tried on 14 additional specifications.

The court will sentence Renton tomorrow. He faces a maximum of five years in jail and a dishonorable discharge.

Renton was found guilty of punching Pvt. Bradford S. Howe of Northboro, Mass., in the stomach and violating a depot order which prohibits instructors from touching a recruit unless it is directly connected with his training.

The youthful instructor admitted making two recruits, Robert J. Palaisa and Clement R. Ploof Jr. "suspend" themselves by elbows and toes over a naked bayonet for 5 to 10 minutes because they violated drill routine.

Renton said he held the bayonet under Palaisa but ordered another recruit, Edward R. Juneau Jr., to do so in Ploof's case.

Renton was reduced in rank from corporal to private first class and restricted to the base after the charges were filed.

Gomulka In Moscow

MOSCOW, Nov. 15 (AP)—Wladyslaw Gomulka, sparkplug of Poland's determined bid for equality with the Soviet Union, received the highest honors from Kremlin leaders today. He arrived to discuss future relations between the two nations.

Police Units Face Touchy Task In Suez

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A lightly armed vanguard of 92 U.N. police-soldiers rushed by air into the Suez Canal zone today to hold the line for peace in the Middle East.

The blue-helmeted Danish and Norwegians in this no-man's-army arrived with only sketchy U.N. resolutions on how to meet a touch-and-go situation in which President Nasser threatens to call on Soviet fighting men for aid unless Israeli, French and British forces withdraw promptly from Egypt.

An Egyptian Embassy spokesman in Moscow indicated Nasser had not played that card yet, a formal request for Soviet military intervention by "volunteers."

But Egyptian spokesmen in Moscow, at the United Nations in New York, and in the Suez Canal zone made plain they expect the U.N. police force to effect quickly the surrender of the French - British sector of the Suez Canal and the Israel-held Gaza Strip to Egypt or Nasser will make the fateful appeal to Moscow.

Arabs Demand Withdrawal

Such a surrender still appeared farthest from the minds of the British, French and Israelis.

But a "summit" conference of kings, presidents and high officials of eight Arab countries, after a three-day meeting in Beirut, Lebanon, built up the pressure for British, French and Israeli withdrawal. In a communique the eight nations declared they had agreed unanimously to use force in behalf of Egypt if the British, French and Israelis did not pull out "immediately and unconditionally."

The U.N. battle - clad police force landed from three Swiss airliners at Abu Suweir airbase, just west of Ismailia in the middle of the canal zone, only about 15 hours after the world had been shaken by a report from an Arab diplomatic source in Moscow that Nasser had asked the immediate dispatch of Soviet volunteers to the Middle East.

Dag Hastens To Cairo

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold issued the orders for the vanguard to take off, after two days of delay at its Capodichino assembly base in Italy. He then hastened off to Cairo himself, stopping in Italy today for a 2¼ - hour conference with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian commander of the U.N. police army.

In Moscow, the spokesman for the Egyptian Embassy said the Arab diplomat who had reported Egypt's request for volunteers had a slight misunderstanding. He said Egypt wanted to abide by U.N. decisions and would ask for Soviet volunteers only if the British, French and Israelis failed to withdraw promptly. He said he knew of no deadline for such withdrawal.

'Copter To Pick Up Stranded Airmen

WATSON LAKE, Y.T., Nov. 15 (AP)—A helicopter was sent today to rescue a U.S. Air Force pilot and seven men who were caught in the snow after parachuting to a remote spot in the Yukon Territory in an attempt to aid him.

The group bogged down in the hip-deep snow late yesterday after moving only a few hundred yards from where the pilot, identified as Capt. Thomas N. Cairney of Oklahoma City, was sighted Tuesday, a few hours after he bailed out of his F84 Thunderjet on a flight from Alaska to the United States.

The isolated party marked a big "X" in the snow. Drifts were described as four to eight feet deep.

Must Stay Out Of Suez Area, Bulganin Says

Demands Egypt Be Paid For Damage, Property Returned

MOSCOW, Nov. 15 (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolia Bulganin tonight raised new conditions that may stalemate U.N. efforts to solve the Middle East crisis.

In notes to the prime ministers of Britain, France and Israel, he declared U.N. troops being sent to police the Middle East zone of conflict must not be stationed in the Suez Canal zone.

Also he demanded that Egypt be paid by Britain, France and Isreal for material losses suffered through their invasion of Egyptian territory.

Egypt already has insisted that the U.N. force be posted only on the 1949 Palestine armistice line between Israel and Egypt and that the British-French troops be pulled out immediately.

Britain and France have stated their troops will not be withdrawn from the canal zone until they are replaced satisfactorily by the U.N. forces.

Pretext For "Volunteers"?

The Soviet and Egyptian insistence that the international force be sent to the frontier might slow the British-French withdrawal and still give Russia pretext to send Soviet "volunteers" to Egypt.

Bulganin's notes to British Prime Minister, Eden, French Premier Guy Mollet and Israeli Prime Minister David Gen-Gurion seemed milder than his earlier messages to them in the Middle East situation.

He did not speak of possible Soviet intervention with either "volunteers" or armed force.

But he said stationing the U.N. soldiers in the canal zone would violate the 1888 Constantinople Convention guaranteeing free access to the Suez Canal and that Britain, France and Israel must compensate Egypt for its losses.

The notes to Eden and Mollet were identical.

No Special Mideast Aims

The Soviet Union, Bulganin said, has no objection to the U.N. force since Egypt has accepted it. But he said the Soviet government considers the international police force unnecessary with the withdrawal of British-French and Israeli troops.

He expressed satisfaction to Eden and Mollet that hostilities in the canal zone have been halted and denied the Soviet Union has any special aims in the Middle East directed against interests of the Western Powers.

Only in his note to Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion did Bulganin strike a threatening note.

He demanded that Israel return to Egypt all property seized in the invasion of the Sinai Peninsula.

An authoritative source in Moscow said the note to Ben-Gurion declared Israel's "aggression against Egypt" raised the question of "the continued existence of Isreal as a state."

(This was not borne out, however, by the text of the note to Ben-Gurion as broadcast by Moscow radio.

U.S. Cardinals Visit President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Three American cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church visited President Eisenhower today, and one said afterward the President has taken "a very good stand" in the current international crises.

The statement to newsmen came from Edward Cardinal Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit. He was accompanied by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles.

The churchmen are in Washington for the annual convocation of the Catholic bishops of the United States.

Cardinal Mooney said the President "heard we were in town and invited us in for a social talk and we went and we enjoyed it very much."

Asked what the position, if any, the Catholic bishops were taking with respect to the way Eisenhower has handled foreign policy in the Middle East and Hungarian crisies, the cardinal replied that he did not want to speak for the bishops as a group.

Then he said that in his own view the President "has taken a very good stand." He added that a statement the Catholic bishops plan to issue Saturday evening "speaks of that."

AEC Official Says A-Tests Up Radiation Only Trifle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission official said today all atomic tests "to date" will raise the dosage of strontium radiation to the human body no more than seven per cent above the maximum resulting from natural radioactivity, such as cosmic rays.

This highest foreseeable dose from the atomic tests "may prove to be as little" as seven-tenths of one per cent, said Merril Eisenbud, manager of the AEC's New York operations office.

The highest figures he gave were about one-tenth as high as the figure the National Academy of Sciences has said would be allowable in terms of bodily safety and several hundred times less than the amount the academy has said is reported necessary to cause bone cancers.

The academy said, also, however, that any amount of radiation —however small—is potentially harmful from the genetic or heredity standpoint. It added, though, that "reasonable" limits could be set.

Eisenbud made his estimate in a speech prepared for a symposium sponsored by the Washington Academy of Sciences. He estimated the ultimate maximum human accumulation of strontium from the tests in amounts more than twice as high as estimates recently given by Dr. Willad Libby, an AEC member. However, Eisenbud said the agreement between the two estimates was "excellent," considering that both "are based on different approaches and that both are deliberately conservative — that is, deliberately high."

Stroke Of "Meanness" By Reds Helped Spark Hungarian Revolt, Refugee Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — A refugee fresh from the fighting in Budapest said today a stroke of "abysmal meanness" by the Communists helped spark Hungary's revolt, right under the guns of Soviet tanks.

The refugee, his identity hidden behind the assumed name of "Arpad Hazafi," told his story in a statement read at a public hearing before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. He said he feared Soviet vengeance on relatives in Hungary if he is identified.

"Let my documentary writing be also the SOS call of my nation," Hazafi said in a preface, and added:

"I beg the help of every nation and creed."

The witness appeared at the hearing wearing a mask. Subcommittee counsel Robert Morris described him as one of three former government workers who had been spirited out of Hungary. He did not explain how.

Hazafi said the stroke of meanness occurred in the early, tension-filled hours of what had started out, on Oct. 23, to be a peaceful demonstration but snowballed into the revolt which briefly freed his people fron. Soviet rule and installed Imre Nagy as head of the government.

He said a crowd of 150,000 had gathered at the Parliament building in Budapest clamoring for Nagy to address them with assurances that their demands would be fulfilled.

He said a voice from the building called out to "give us 20 minutes, comrade Imre Nagy is on the way and the loudspeaker is being set up."

The 20 minutes passed, he said, "and another characteristic deceit takes place. Instead of the promised loudspeakers by which the situation could have been saved, had Imre Nagy been at the microphone, the street lighting went out; 150,000 stand there stamping on each other, choking in the crowd and in darkness.

"Who could have thought of such absymal meanness?"

He said the angry crowd improvised torches while more promises came that Nagy was on the way. Nagy finally arrived and attempted to speak but got no further than the first word: "Comrades."

The crowd shouted back, he said, "There are no more comrades, all are Magyars—Hungarians."

Shakeup Expected In Diplomatic Corps

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — James D. Zellerbach, San Francisco industrialist, was reported today to be under top-level consideration as the replacement for Clare Boothe Luce, American ambassador to Italy.

Zellerbach, former Marshall Plan aid chief of Italy, is among a number of Republican businessmen seriously being considered for important ambassadorial jobs within the next few months.

Their appointment would be part of a major shakeup of non-career diplomats at the start of the Eisenhower administration's second term.

Mrs. Luce, who is now in New York, is one of four leading Western European ambassadors who are reported planning to quit about Jan. 1 in keeping with previous intentions.

Resignations also are due to be accepted from Winthrop Aldrich, ambassador to Britain; Douglas Dillon, envoy to France, and former Harvard President James B. Conant, ambassador to West Germany.

As part of the diplomatic reshuffle, new American ambassadors are also to be named to India, the Philippines and Australia, where vacancies exist, and to New Zealand where former Republican Sen. Robert Hendrickson of New Jersey heads the embassy.

A substantial number of resignations from other key diplomats are also expected to be accepted by the White House.

Although most of the contemplated changes have been long planned, they coincide with reports the Eisenhower administration has been displeased with the caliber of diplomatic reports from some political appointee-ambassadors.

Secretary of State Dulles is known to have been upset at both Aldrich and Dillon on this score. Both men failed to get word of British-French plans to invade Egypt, despite Dulles' urgent cables asking them to penetrate what was regarded as a suspicious news blackout from the British-French foreign offices.

Testimony Ends In Tromberi Case

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—Testimony was completed today in the murder trial of 15-year-old Joseph Thomas Tromberi after his girl friend said she talked him into shooting her father and was glad he's dead.

Tromberi is accused of shooting Leonard H. Burgess, 32, father of Diane Burgess, 15, the girl Tromberi loved and hoped to marry. Burgess was killed from ambush as he returned home the night of Sept. 29.

Diane and her mother, Mrs. Thelma Burgess, the deceased's wife, are charged with being accessories before the murder.

A statement given to police at the time Tromberi was arrested was admitted into evidence yesterday. In it, the youth said he killed Burgess because the victim had had improper relations with his daughter, Diane.

Child And Baby Sitter Drown

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—A two-year-old girl and the 21-year-old Negro baby sitter who apparently tried to rescue her drowned today in Weems Creek at Steffens Point.

Police identified the child as Patricia Louise Caple, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Edward S. Caple of Admiral Heights, Md., and the baby sitter as Miss Isabel Russ Chatman of Millersville, Md.

There were no eye witnesses to the double drowning, but police theorized that the little girl fell into the water from a private pier near where her body was found. The attendant apparently died when she entered the water in an attempt to save the child.

Police said the girl's body was found within seven feet of shore and the baby sitters body within 30 feet. The water is shallow for a distance of about 12 feet from shore, then there is a sudden drop, police said.

A comet's head is made up of pebbles and it pushes a cloud of dust ahead.

French Charge Russia Trying To Hamper Dag

PARIS, Friday, Nov. 16 (AP) — A French Foreign Ministry spokesman charged today that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's latest notes to France and Britain are intended to hamper the Middle East mission of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The spokesman said France feels the Soviet position will incite Egypt's President Nasser to oppose any action of the U.N. to police the Suez Canal with an international force.

Egypt already is trying to have the first U.N. contingents in the canal zone sent to the Sinai Peninsula borders of Israel rather than toward the British-French occupation area around Port Said.

Britain and France repeatedly have expressed determination to hold their forces in the canal zone until a replacement force satisfactory to them is dug in.

The French spokesman said the French and British governments have "tried to do everything not to create any difficulties for Mr. Hammarskjold in the execution of the delicate mission which was given him by the United Nations General Assembly."

On the other hand, he said, the Soviet Union is pushing Nasser into "a situation without compromise by putting forward claims which even Egypt had not dared to publicly announce."

Britain And France Violate Arms Pact

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Defense Department said today Britain and France had been using American military equipment in the Suez campaign in violation of a mutual defense agreement.

The department noted that the State Department on Nov. 3 had cautioned Britain and France against such use of arms supplied to them as members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

However, the Pentagon said in a written answer to questions by reporters, that the cease-fire in Suez may make further representations unnecessary.

The department said it had learned from U. S. military aid groups in Britain and France and from British and French authorities "that U. S. equipment has been diverted to the support of operations in the Suez area."

Doll, Penny, Pin Removed From Tot's Stomach

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 15 (AP)—They hit a jackpot when they X-rayed 2-year-old Sylvia MacKinnon. Her mother thought the child had swallowed a tiny plastic toy.

The X-ray showed the toy, all right — a small plastic doll. It also showed a penny in Sylvia's stomach, next to the doll, and an open safety pin in her throat.

Physicians quickly persuaded Sylvia to eat some heavily buttered bread. That brought the pin into the stomach where it, the doll and the penny were removed by surgery yesterday.

Sylvia's mother, Mrs. Edna MacKinnon of nearby Rochester, said the little girl's stomach is a little sore today.

Strangler Gets 10 Years To Life

CARSON CITY, Nev. Nov. 15 (AP)—William E. Boswell, 39-year-old bartender, pleaded guilty today to strangling Mrs. Anne Harris Van Ryne, 22-year-old Philadelphia socialite, and was sentenced to 10 years to life in prison.

Boswell, formerly of Kansas City, pleaded guilty to second degree murder before Dist. Judge Frank Gregory. Under the sentence Boswell may apply for parole after 10 months. No one has been released so early under a second degree murder sentence.

Mrs. Van Ryne, an expectant mother, was strangled last May.

Defense attorney Jack streeter labeled the slaying a "crime of heavy drinking." Streeter said Boswell had been drinking heavily for two or three weeks before the decomposing body of the pretty young socialite was found stuffed into the closet of Boswell's Carson City apartment.

Dulles Due To Leave Hospital Sunday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles is scheduled to leave Walter Reed Hospital here Sunday and fly immediately to the U.S. Naval base at Key West, Fla., for a "short convalescence" before returning to his State Department desk.

The rate of his recovery from the operation for intestinal cancer which he underwent on Nov. 3 is so rapid that he may be able to return to work in early December, State Department press officer Lincoln White said today.

Judge Moser Dies At Home In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—Circuit Judge Herman M. Moser, a member of the Baltimore Supreme Bench and prominent Maryland jurist, died today at his home. He was 56.

Ill for the past two years, Judge Moser had sat on the bench intermittantly until last summer.

He had been a member of the Supreme Bench since 1944 and before that had been State Parole Commissioner, people's counsel to the Public Service Commissioner and an assistant state's attorney of Baltimore.

Judge Moser's public life began at the age of 23 when he became an assistant to former Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, at that time state's attorney. He resigned that post in 1928 for private practice and in 1933 was named People's Counsel to the PSC, a position he held until 1935.

Four years later, Moser was named state parole commissioner by then Gov. O'Conor and served in that position until O'Conor appointed him to the Supreme Bench in 1944.

Perhaps the most famous case over which he presided was the murder trial of G. Edward Grammer in 1952. Grammer, tried without a jury, was convicted and hanged for the "almost perfect" murder of his wife.

Eden Cool To Idea Of Calling Arms Talks

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Prime Minister Eden today shrugged off a suggestion that he take the initiative in calling a top - level conference to discuss limitation and eventual abolition of the hydrogen bomb.

Eden replied to a Laborite in the House of Commons who raised the idea.

"In the present international atmosphere, I rather doubt, and I think you will on reflection, whether we would go very far with the proposal."

Nehru Endorses Vote

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today fully endorsed India's voting with the Communist bloc in the U.N. discussion of Hungary, a party spokesman said tonight.

Friends Say Herbert Hoover, Jr., Prefers Gold Mining To State Dept. Job

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—To Herbert Hoover Jr., there are three ingredients of a life worth living — the outdoors, faraway places and mining engineering.

Friends say he would rather be back in Australia mining gold than serving in his present position as No. 2 man in the State Department.

At 53, "young Herbie" retains no happy memories about the White House, where his father lived for four years as the 31st president. His fondest memories are of those far-off places where he mined for gold and explored for oil.

If the mention of gold conjures up visions of money, there has always been an ample supply of that in Hoover's life. So much so that he simply takes it for granted. The gold was something to be engineered out of the earth. That it bought things was nice, but incidental.

Still, his friends describe him as a slow man with a buck: "If it's going to cost anything, young Herbie wants to take a second look."

They also say that as a trained engineer, like his father, he wants to take a cautious second look at everything. And that includes public service which, because of the criticism heaped upon his father whom he reveres, he approaches as a chore to be done with quickly. Public office holds no glamor for him.

"Under certain circumstances when things are put up to you as a matter of duty to serve your country, it is extraordinarily difficult to say no," this affable but shy man commented recently.

Friends reported him aghast at talk early this year that he might replace Vice President Nixon as President Eisenhower's 1956 running mate. And he is said to have been upset when named by Eisenhower himself last summer as among young Republicans of presidential timber.

"I do not wish to be disrespectful," he said then, "but I have not the slightest interest in politics."

But politics has shown more than a slight interest in him. It took the Senate Foreign Relations Committee only a few minutes to approve his nomination as undersecretary of state. And on Aug. 18, 1954, the full Senate confirmed it less than 24 hours after it had been submitted.

He got the job because of his knowledge of international oil problems and a display of "nice guy" diplomacy which impressed both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

Once in office, however, he became involved in four undiplomatic "bloopers" which have overshadowed his work in helping gain a settlement of the once-bitter Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

These miscues are said to have cooled Dulles off on him somewhat, although Eisenhower seemingly still tolds him in undiminished regard. They were:

1. When Red China's Premier Chou en-lai suggested in the spring of 1955 that his country and the United States discuss Far East problems, Hoover rejected it out of hand. He said there would be no such talks without Nationalist China present, a condition the Communists had to refuse.

2. Later Hoover issued a statement, since described as gratuitous, hailing West German Chancellor Adenauer's talk at Moscow as proof of the "bankruptcy" of Soviet policy toward West Germay.

3. When a shipment of U. S. tanks for Saudi Arabia was discovered on a New York dock, he ordered it held up, only to have to take back his order in the glare of bright publicity whipped up over the affair by Arab-Israeli authorities.

4. Last April it was disclosed he had told a Senate subcommittee that Nationalist China was shipping "millions of dollars worth of goods every year" to Red China. Later he testified he was "in error," saying the State Department had "no evidence of direct commercial contact" between the two Chinas.

In the upshot of the first three incidents, Dulles — who had been away from Washington each time —acted immediately to disavow them and overturn the decisions. Dulles accepted Chou's offer and started talks at Geneva. He sought to tone down the effect of the Adenauer statement and he made clear the tanks deal was U. S. policy.

In each of these three cases, officials have said, somebody else wrote the statement which Hoover issued. Still, he was the acting secretary of state and could have rejected or revised the wording.

In the China trade situation, intimates have said it was Dulles himself who advised Hoover to disclose the Formosa trade with he mainland. Even though Hoover later testified the trade was through Hong Kong, officials concerned with the area say privately that the two Chinas are engaged in direct trade but, since the Nationalists provide the State Department with its only reports on such trade, Hoover was technically correct in saying he had no evidence of it.

They maintain that the denial was necessary for diplomatic and legislative reasons — to get along with Nationalist China and with senators who have much to say about U. S. foreign policy and State Department apropriations.

Friends will tell you that Hoover demonstrated one of his chief qualities in each of the four instances. This, they say, is loyalty.

They dispute any criticisms, such as have appeared in newspapers and periodicals, that Hoover would impose a slowdown on any policies with which he disagreed.

Defenders of Hoover say such criticism springs from misunderstanding. They say their man is not easy to put into any category.

As if to prove it, they describe him as a "conservative internationalist who leans somewhat to the right."

SHOES — STREET FLOOR

Look how much the Big M has grown for 1957—in size, power, weight—in everything that counts in a car!

NEW WIDTH—Notice how THE BIG M's new breadth is dramatized by a massive new Jet-Flo Bumper. The oval shape of this graceful new bumper design is as functional as it is beautiful. It acts as a double bumper—provides both high and low protection. Notice the matching "twin"-styled rear bumper (right).

NEW OVERSIZED INTERIORS—There's more comfort in the front and back seats of the new BIG M. There's new hip room and leg room. As much shoulder room, for example, as in many of the most expensive cars. The floor is now recessed between the frame. The result: more headroom than ever before.

NEW LENGTH, NEW WHEELBASE—CLOSE TO TWO-TONS BIG. Every important dimension is bigger. In addition to the new length, wheelbase is a big 122 inches. And the 1957 Mercurys are up to 225 pounds heavier, too. A far lower center of gravity gives you an amazing sense of "nailed-down" stability on curves and corners.

NEW POWER—UP TO 290 HP

A 255-hp Safety-Surge engine is standard. A 290-hp Turnpike Cruiser V-8 is optional. And there are two Mercury engine "firsts." A Thermo-matic Carburetor controls the temperature of air the engine breathes. The results: extra power and economy. And, in the Montclair series, a Power-Booster Fan coasts when not needed for cooling—saves horsepower.

NEW DREAM-CAR DESIGN

1957's most advanced styling—a clean-cut, dynamic look that makes other cars look old-fashioned. The roof is gracefully slender—sweeps back out over the rear window to provide extra headroom. The tail-lights have an imaginative V-angle slant. Here's America's first production dream car—styling that will influence the shape of cars for years to come.

DRAMATIC NEW FEATURES

Everywhere you look there's a new idea: an exclusive 7-position Keyboard Control that outdates ordinary, push-button transmissions, an exclusive Floating Ride with a cushioning action you have to feel to believe. You can even get a power seat that "remembers"—turn a dial and it finds your favorite seat position. But see everything. Stop in today.

We invite you to see this straight-out-of-tomorrow car today at our showroom.

Protestant Denominations Cooperate In Locating Churches, Avoid Crowding

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

America's Protestant family has a new point of etiquette in its guidebook for growth:

"Don't crowd."

This gentlemanly rule, which has spread widely among the communities of the nation, applies to the location of new churches.

Instead of the old free-for-all fighting over new territories, with numerous casualties in dead or crippled churches, various denominations now talk it over to decide who builds a church where.

They're hard pressed to keep up with the need even without swarming into one spot, said the Rev. Dr. Stanley U. North, a specialist on the subject. "Plain common sense demands cooperation."

The idea is to permit the development of a strong, vigorous church in each neighborhood, he said, instead of "a dozen struggling, ineffectual churches," all vying for adherents to survive.

One inherent effect of the system is to draw people of different religious backgrounds into a mixed fold—under the name of the demonation assigned to erect a church to serve them all.

"Dominational differences are quite frequently of little importance in the minds of people," said Dr. North, general secretary of church extension for the Congregational Christian Home Missions Division.

What's important, he said, is that they have a strong church, with a full, rich program, regardless of its nominal designation.

In hundreds of cities and many states, interdenominational planning agencies have been formed, most of them since World War II, to map jointly the placement of churches in growing residential areas.

The agencies go by various names—such as "comity commission," "research and planning committee," or "planning and adjustment committee." They're usually set up through local or state church councils.

In any case, their aim is to survey each new neighborhood or areas lacking churches, and then agree on which denominations will be establish churches to fill the need, with others named to do the job elsewhere.

"They can very well find a better place than right in some other church's backyard," said the Rev. Joseph W. Merchant, executive director of the Department of Urban Church of the National Council of Churches.

"When they all pile into one promising place, as they used to, the result is a number of weak, stunted churches, none of them flourishing, while other places were left untouched.

"This wastes resources and leaves communities inadequately served."

Eleven denominations, including Methodists, American Baptists, the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., Christian Churches, Congregational Christians, and the Evangelical and Reformed Church have formally pledged to back up the cooperative arrangements in locating new churches—nationally.

Their home missions boards, which generally must supply financial aid to start a new church anywhere, serve as a potent weapon to prevent infringements on one another's territorial allocations.

Other denominations also participate on a regional basis in many states and cities. The parceling out of more-or-less exclusive domains often produces highly blended congregations.

"The American people are not nearly as fussy as they used to be about denominations," Mr. Merchant said. "In general they go to the neighborhood church.

"It's not a matter of disloyalty to their previous denomination, but a recognition of a common basis for faith."

Preponderance of community denominational preferences, turn up in the surveys, is considered in assigning denominations to new areas. But majority preferences don't always determine the denomination, Mr. Merchant emphasized, since smaller denominations are given fields, too.

Many exceptions to the systematic spotting of new churches still occur, however. Noncooperating denominations move in, or powerful individual congregations plant new "colony" churches, regardless of agreements in the areas.

"Comity is not a means of freezing out any religious body anywhere in America," Mr. Merchant said.

"If any group wants to buy land and put a church on it, even at the risk of having only a few people and getting some of them from already going churches, it's their right."

The planning pacts, he said, are "not intended as an instrument to eliminate competition, but to regulate and make more sensible the distribution of religious forces in the community.

By their beliefs, however, some smaller, fundamentalist bodies, and some larger churches, such as Roman Catholics, Southern Baptists and some Lutherans, require denominational representation in each area as much as possible.

In some states, however, such as Massachusetts, there is informal sharing of information and planning among most all groups—Catholics, Protestants and Jews.

It's generally considered that not more than one church is needed for each 1,500 population. Although their choices are weighed in designating a denomination to serve them, it's seldom that as many as 25 per cent all have the same denominational background.

As a result, the new churches "bear denominational names but they are extremely composite in their membership," Dr. North said.

"The churches of the nation are becoming highly heterogenous."

Nutting Resigns His Seat In Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Anthony Nutting, 36, who quit Prime Minister Eden's government as minister of state for foreign affairs Nov. 4 in disagreement with its Middle Eastern policy, resigned today as a member of Parliament.

In a letter to the Conservative party chairman of his constituency at Melton, the former "bright young man" of the Conservative party wrote:

"I have decided to resign my seat and to make way for a Conservative candidate who would be able, if and when elected, to support without reservation the policies of the present government."

The resignation means a by-election must be held to fill the vacant seat.

N.Z. Recruits U.N. Force

WELLINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The government has begun recruiting 300 volunteers for New Zealand's contingent to the U. N. Middle East police force. It probably will be four or five months before the force is ready.

Days and nights are of equal length throughout the world twice a year——at the vernal and autumnal equinox when the sun is directly overhead at the equator.

Camp Kilmer Readied For Hungary Refugees

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The White House announced today the Army is preparing temporary housing at Camp Kilmer, N.J., for the vanguard of about 5,000 Hungarian refugees to be admitted to this country.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said there is "a very good chance" that the first of the Soviet-oppressed refugees will arrive at the camp by the end of next week.

President Eisenhower last week ordered admittance of up to 5,000 Hungarian refugees.

Detergents Due To Replace Soap

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15 (AP)—The old fashioned bar of soap is doomed to disappear from the American scene, says an expert.

Body cleansing detergents now being perfected will replace it, the chairman of the board of Procter and Gamble said yesterday at a press conference.

Detergents, said Richard R. Deupree, can tackle the same jobs as soap but "develop a better lather and leave no ring in the bathtub."

Civic Club Art Group Has Decorations Workshop

The Art Group of the Woman's Civic Club held an all-day workshop and made Christmas decorations in conjunction with the monthly meeting Wednesday at the club house, Washington Street.

The decorations are to be used for the Christmas luncheon of the club, December 13. The American Home, Literature, and Music and Arts groups are in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Arthur Fuller presided at the business session and reported on the art display held by the group during National Art Week. Arts and crafts of various kinds, made by members of the entire club, were exhibited.

Within the group, classes are being conducted in ceramics, copper enameling and aluminum tray making. They will continue throughout the year.

The next meeting and workshop will be held at 10 a. m. December 5, when Mrs. Haydn Butler, Mrs. T. Donald Shires, Mrs. Winfield I. Burton and Mrs. Foster P. Schilt will be hostesses.

Lay Health Group Aids Charities

Cumberland Lay Health Group discussed its Christmas project and party at the luncheon meeting held at Sheehe's Restaurant. The women are dressing dolls and doing sewing for the Associated Charities.

December 11 was selected as the date for the Christmas party.

Four new members were received and assigned to various clinics. They are Mrs. Edwin VanMeter, Mrs. Bud Sensabaugh, Mrs. John Daychek and Mrs. Leon Holmes.

One guest, Mrs. Mary Margaret Smith, and the following members attended: Mrs. Clyde Cessna, Mrs. Charles Heller, Mrs. Dorothy Tase, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Mildred Allender, Mrs. Mary Jane Tyree, Mrs. Cecelia Edminston, Mrs. J. E. Abernathy, Mrs. N. N. Smith, Mrs. Marion May and Mrs. Thomas J. Jones.

Grove 11 To Meet

Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, Grove 11, will appoint different committees at the regular meeting tonight at 8 at the WOW hall.

Plans also will be completed for a covered dish supper, and drill team practice will be held.

Cresap Club Appoints Committees

Committees were appointed and plans for a Christmas party were discussed at the meeting of the Cresap Homemakers Club, held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Emma Heinrich, Triple Lakes.

Mrs. Arlie Borror presided and led the group in the pledge to the flag. She also appointed an Auditing committee, composed of Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Mrs. Earl Kitzmiller and Mrs. Gordon Miller.

The Nominating committee report was given by Mrs. Harold Lewis. Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis was installed as vice president; Mrs. Arthur Long, secretary, and Mrs. Trubador Lewis, assistant. Mrs. Hounshell officiated at the installation.

A committee of arrangements was appointed for December 16, when the club will be hostess to the County Homemaker Chorus in Cresaptown Methodist Church, at which time the chorus will present a Christmas cantata. The committee includes Mrs. David Scollick, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Arthur Ferguson, Mrs. A. M. Poland and Mrs. Melvin Miller.

Plans were discussed for a jingle party December 27 at the home of Miss Dora Lewis, Winchester Road. Mrs. Arthur Ferguson, Clothing chairman, showed a basic dress pattern she made for herself and announced a two-day workshop meeting to be held in Cresaptown in January. Roll call was answered with experiences with new fibers. Mrs. Thomas Millar led the group singing of "Faith of Our Fathers." Routine reports were given and Mrs. Hounshell reported on the county Achievement program and Mrs. Edward Lewis, on the UN tour. A demonstration on laundering new fabrics was given by Mrs. John Sharp. A note of thanks for a sunshine gift was read from Mrs. A. J. Burrell and a card was signed by all members to be sent to Mrs. W. O. Winters, a shut-in.

Corsages were presented to the three new members by the Membership committee, Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis, and Mrs. A. G. Shank. The new members are Mrs. Melvin Miller, Mrs. Gordon Miller and Mrs. Ivan Mills. A meditation was read on "What Kindness Wins for Us." The meeting concluded with a plate luncheon. Twenty-one members attended.

Kenneth Russell Marks Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. John Berkard, Bowling Green, entertained in honor of their nephew, Kenneth Russell, on his first birthday November 10. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Russell, 636 Shriver Avenue.

Besides his parents, others attending were Mary Lee, Richard and Patricia Rice, Charles and John Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rice, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Rice Jr., Mrs. John Carscaden and daughter, Shirley, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Mrs. J. Albert Nichols, 806 Greene Street, has returned from visiting her niece, Mrs. William Lester Jr., Baltimore.

DeMolay Plans Initiation, Drill Practice Sunday

First and second degree officers of Cumberland Chapter, DeMolay will hold an initiation practice Sunday at 2 at the Masonic Temple. Announcement was made at the meeting of the chapter Wednesday evening. Initiation will be held November 28, after which the Mothers Club will entertain.

The group discussed the Christmas dance which will be held December 7 at the Ali Ghan Country Club. John Ritchie's Orchestra will play from 9:30 until 12:30. It will be open to the public and tickets may be obtained from any DeMolay boy.

Members were told that anyone needing transportation to the annual Scottish Rite DeMolay Memorial dinner, November 23, at the Ali Ghan Country Club, is to meet at Central YMCA at 6 o'clock. It also was decided that basketball practice notices will be mailed.

Melvin WS Makes Donations

The Melvin WSCS decided to give $200 to the building fund and send a Christmas check of $5 to Miss Dorothy Strong, missionary to India. Mrs. Blanche Speir presided at the business meeting, Wednesday at the church.

A report on the World Day of Prayer and Zone meeting was given by Mrs. Harry Alderton. Mrs. Helen Northcraft reported on missionary education. Mrs. Vincent Delagrange reported $243.64 was made from the sale of apple butter. Mrs. Virginia Golden announced 45 sunshine cards sent and 27 sick calls made. Mrs. Carl Koerner and Mrs. Leona Miller were appointed in charge of a quilt project to raise funds. Mrs. Emma Minke is chairman to present a musicale during December. It was decided that each member donate a dollar to the society instead of having a jingle party.

A talent contest was the feature of the evening, $100 was raised, and Mrs. Rhoda Streett was crowned "Queen of the WSCS" for having made the most use of her talents.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Howard Northcraft. Her topic was "The United Nations." Prayer was led by Mrs. Hartman. Mrs. Ralph Webster spoke of her visit to the UN. A new member Mrs. Glenn Shipway, was welcomed. Hostesses were Mrs. Nellie Miller and Mrs. Julia Hovatter.

Vera Blinn Sends Box To Greece

The Vera Blinn Woman's Society of World Service completed plans for sending a box to Greece as a Christmas project and held a Thank Offering service at the meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Shaffer, Potomac Park. Mrs. Mary Troutman was assistant hostess.

Mrs. R. C. Isiminger presided at the business session. The group decided to assist in serving the Youth Fellowship at the church every other Sunday. A report of the fall rally held at Potomac Park Church was given by Mrs. John S. Cook Sr.

A program, "The Church Reaches Beyond Her Doorsteps," was led by Mrs. Melvie Roder. Mrs. Shaffer read the Scripture; Mrs. William Suder portrayed the part of an army chaplain, stressing his duties; and Mrs. Isiminger, delivering mail at the front. A playlet presenting the thank offering was given by Mrs. J. L. Brotemarkle, Mrs. John House and Mrs. Richard Cook. Others taking part in the service were Mrs. John Cook, Mrs. H. J. Rally, Mrs. Suder, Mrs. H. C. Trenton, Mrs. Homer Carlton and Mrs. T. L. Grove.

The next meeting will be December 11 and will be held at the home of Mrs. H. L. Nesbitt, 544 Rose Hill Avenue.

Two visitors and 18 members attended.

Union Grove Yule Party Dec. 12

The Union Grove Homemakers Club received reports and decided to hold its Christmas party at the next meeting, at the regular business session Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Albert Windish, following a covered dish supper. Mrs. George Windish and Mrs. Clara Stacy were cohostesses. The Christmas party is to be December 12 at the fire hall at 6 p.m. Each member is to bring a 50-cent jingle gift. The Dinner committee consists of Mrs. Lloyd Keller, Mrs. Elva Brotemarkle, Mrs. Hazel Bowling, and Mrs. Catherine Purnell. Reservations are to be made by December 5. The Decorations committee is composed of Mrs. Helen White, Mrs. Verna Hicks, Mrs. Pearl Dicken and Mrs. Selma Gillum.

Mrs. John Hardinger was elected vice president; and Mrs. Bowling, secretary. Mrs. Holmes Cessna presided and led the flag salute. Mrs. Louise Franklin read a poem, "Prayer." The quotation of the month was given by Mrs. White and the group sang, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." Roll call was answered with experiences with new fibers. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Bowling and Mrs. White. Mrs. Ruthella Fey gave the Sunshine report. Changes to the by-laws, concerning a delegate to Short Course, were accepted.

A report on the demonstration of whitening nylons was given by Mrs. Rose Yeargan. Mrs. Franklin spoke on Achievement day and urged members to begin immediately making a record of their sewing projects for next year's Achievement reports. Mrs. Cassna spoke of the program.

Following the meeting the club Achievement program was held. Articles displayed were a suit by Mrs. Cessna; a coat, apron, toys and skirt by Mrs. White; aprons by Mrs. Mary Wentling; a stole, Mrs. Alice Zembower; a hooked rug, Mrs. Grace Heavner; drawn work scarves, Mrs. George Windish.

Mrs. Hilda Phillips, county delegate to the national conference in Texas, gave her report and told of her trip to Mexico and Florida. She showed articles she bought in Mexico and a bread basket, hot mats and planter she made with popsickle sticks and chinaberry beads at a homemakers' workshop in Florida.

A white elephant sale followed. The group sang "Till We Meet Again," honoring Mrs. Helen Vandegrift, who leaves next week for Florida. Other guests were Miss Nina Seitz and Mrs. Loretta McDonald. Twenty members attended.

Man Held In Slaying Of Wife, Dumping Body In Ditch, Awaits Hearing Monday

HYATTSVILLE, Md., Nov. 5 (AP) —Joseph Whitley, charged with strangling his wife and dumping her body in a Virginia ditch, was held in the lockup here today awaiting a police court hearing Monday morning.

The 54-year-old department store mechanic and part-time fuel service operator is accused of murder in the death of his 46-year-old wife, Edith Worley Whitley, in the couple's Riverdale, Md., home early Sunday.

Police Inspector Aubrey E. Tolson announced that Whitley admitted kicking his wife in the abdomen and choking her to stifle screams in a fight that followed an argument.

Whitley was quoted as saying the scuffle started when his wife accused him of infidelity and lunged at him with a butcher knife.

Whitley's admission, police said, came early today after six hours of questioning. Prior to that, they said, he had cooperated with them in a search for clues.

Whitley related, police said, that after sitting around the house about an hour he put his wife's body in the trunk of his car and drove to Virginia. About six miles north of Richmond, he was quoted as saying, he turned off U.S. 1 onto a secondary road and, near dawn, disposed of the body.

Police also quoted Whitley as saying he removed his wife's wedding band, two diamond rings and a wrist watch before rolling the body into the ditch, and then threw the jewelry onto the highway somewhere between Ashland and Fredericksburg en route home. The jewelry has not been recovered.

Mrs. Whitley's body was found Sunday afternoon by a boy bicycling along the road. It was identified by fingerprints, which have been on file with the FBI since Mrs. Whitley applied for the job she held at the Naval Gun Factory in Washington.

Whitley's admission, according to police, was a story of marital strife marked by violence. On several occasions, police said, Mrs. Whitley preferred assault and battery charges against her husband but refused to prosecute him when trial time came.

Whitley also was quoted as saying he did not intend to kill his wife, that he had choked her only to quiet her screams.

Mrs. Whitley, a native of Roanoke, Va., had lived in this area about 15 years. She had been married to Whitley, her third husband, about three years.

Pigeons Get Break From Budget Slash

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP) — Pigeons could coo with satisfaction today at the rising cost of government.

Mounting costs forced city officials to prune from the budget $130,000 that was to go for cleaning and bird-proofing the city hall and courthouse.

As far back as 1922 city fathers ordered the birds banished from city buildings. Since then they have eluded all attempts to drive them from their perches.

D.C. Has Unscheduled Air Raid Warning

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Washington had an unscheduled air raid warning today.

The warning device, one of the loudest in the city, went off while a maintenance man was working on it.

The accidental dry run proved one thing: The signal can be heard. Civil Defense headquarters received inquiries about the warning from wide areas of the city.

Dystrophy Research

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Muscular Dystrophy Assn. of America says it has allocated to research $6,159,278 contributed by the public since 1950 in annual November Marches ofMuscular Dystrophy drives.

Freighter Has Egyptian Crew, English Captain

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP) — The Egyptian freighter Cleopatra arrived in Baltimore harbor today. Its crew is Egyptian and its skipper is English.

A spokesman for the crew said they were anxious to go to their country's defense and felt completely frustrated that they couldn't.

The English captain, W. Bousaanguet had called the ship's officers together after the first news of the Middle Eastern conflict reached him and said he would leave the ship later if the situation remained critical.

The ship touched here on a regularly scheduled run. But it cannot return to its home port under existing conditions because the Mediterranean is closed to shipping..

"We are in a terrible situation," said Kamel who acted as spokesman for the Egyptians. "Each day when we hear the news, we live and die twice."

"We are helpless. The only thing we can do is pray for Egypt."

The 8,193-ton merchantship is scheduled to leave tonight to complete its normal run to Charleston, S. C., New Orleans and New York.

It was scheduled to return Dec. 18 to Alexandria, where it left Oct. 11.

The Cleopatra is the only Egyptian ship on this side of the Atlantic. It is one of two Khedivial Mail Line ships away from the home port of Alexandria. The other, the El Kahira, is in Tangier. It has a Greek captain.

Parker Joins Martin Board Of Directors

BALTIMORE, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Glenn L. Martin Co., aircraft manufacturer, today announced that John E. Parker of Washington, D. C., has been elected to its board of directors.

Parker, 56, presently director of Hall-Scott, Inc., manufacturer of heavy duty combustion engines and electronic equipment, also has been elected a director of Slick Airways, Inc., but this action is still subject to confirmation by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Parker served as chairman and president of Northwestern Aeronautical Corp. of St. Paul, Minn., and organized and headed Engineering Research Associates, also of St. Paul. When the latter was taken over by Remington Rand, Inc., he became vice president and general sales manager of Sperry-Rand Corp.'s electronic computer department.

He is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy.

"Hated To Do It"

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—For the first time, the New York Public Library is using plastic coin boxes in its annual appeal for funds. "We hated to do it," an official said. The boxes are placed at the library's entrances. The goal for this year is $450,000.

Woman Sets Fire To Herself In Jail

BALTIMORE, Nvo. 15 (AP) — A woman suffered first and second degree burns today when she set fire to herself in a jail cell, police reported.

Police said Helen Carter, 32-year-old telephone operator, apparently hid matches or a cigarette lighter on her person when she was searched after being arrested on a tavern on a disorderly conduct charge.

After treatment at University Hospital for burns of the hands and thighs she was returned to magistrate's court and fined $10 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge.

Food Poisoning Fatal To 2 Tots

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 15 (AP) — Food poisoning was blamed for the deaths today of two children and the hospitalization of seven others from the same family.

The nine children of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Kidwell of Sharpsburg were stricken yesterday.

Thomas, 1, and Charles, 2, died today at Washington County Hospital. The other seven, ranging up to 13 years of age, are reported in fair condition.

Dr. W. Ross Cameron County health officer, said indications are food poisoning is responsible. He said an investigation was continuing to determine what specifically was the cause.

The parents also were ill but were not sick enough to be hospitalized.

40 Locos For Sale

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 15 (AP)—Canadian National has 40 narrow gauge railway steam locomotives for sale. They are being replaced by diesels. The railway is looking for buyers in Japan, Africa, Australia and South America —but without much success.

Industry Leaders To Fight Baltimore Plan To Tax Machinery

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—Business and industrial leaders prepared today to fight a proposal by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro to tax manufacturers' machinery and inventory.

Business leaders contend such a tax would stifle Baltimore's industrial growth.

Harrison Garrett, president of the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce, said the association would make a study of the specific effects it would have on industry.

The mayor proposed and the Board of Estimates approved a plan to draw up a bill calling for the manufacturers' tax. Budget officials say this would cut the property tax rate 20 cents, putting it at $2.85. They say new revenue is needed or the proposed budget of more than 206 million dollars will mean a 20 cent boost in the tax rate, now at $3.13.

Foote Discusses Child Creativity

FROSTBURG — Theodore P. Foote, art supervisor for the Allegany County Board of Education, spoke at last night's fellowship dinner of the State Teachers College Laboratory School in the college dining hall.

Foote discussed "Creativity and Your Child." He pointed out that creativity can be applied to practically any form of activity provided the person working applies his own knowledge and uses original ideas and doesn't follow the preconceived plans of other people. He said that many times creativity is stiffled in children by well meaning parents who want their children to do only what someone else has planned for them and not to investigate and experiment on their own.

Toastmaster for the evening's affair was William J. Yingling, president of the PTA. Earl Richardson gave the invocation and a quartet composed of Mrs. Marion Charles, Mrs. Betty Blair, Richard Green and Samuel Miller sang. Following a brief business session the meeting adjourned.

Playground Group Has Annual Dinner

FROSTBURG — The Braddock Park Playground Association held its annual dinner at Moon's Restaurant, Cumberland, Tuesday evening.

The table was decorated in a Thanksgiving motif and appointments were carried out in the same theme. Games were played and Mrs. John Logue, Mrs. Robert Fisher, Mrs. James Lancaster, and Mrs. Frederick Snelson were winners.

Others attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. George Pugh, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Weitzell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hochard, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Layman, Mrs. George Wellings, Mrs. Arthur Bond, John Logue, James Lancaster, and Frederick Snelson.

Missionaries In City

Two missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints are now in Cumberland in a door-to-door visit meeting with residents and explaining the program of their church. Next spring a church is being planned on Columbia Street. Meanwhile meetings are being held at Central YMCA. The two missionaries pictured above are Elder Leonard N. Tolman, left, of Bancroft, Idaho, and Elder Delano F. Ford, of Santa Monica, Calif.

Group To Aid Mission

The Rawlings WSCS discussed helping Catherine Eye, missionary, at the meeting at the home of Mrs. John Yahn, Rawlings. Mrs. Caleb White offered the opening prayer and read a letter from Miss Eye, missionary in the Belgian Congo, requesting rolled dressings, made from torn strips of sheets, to be used in the care of leper patients. It was decided to meet at the home of Mrs. Arthur Evans to begin making the bandages.

An article, "The UN, a Good Trustee," was read and reports were given on the district conference at Hagerstown and the zone meeting at Cresaptown.

The next meeting will be a supper in celebration of Christmas. It will be in the basement of the Rawlings Church, December 6, beginning at 5.

Honored By ROTC

James H. Fraley, 400 Walnut Street, is among the 38 students of LaSalle College, Philadelphia who were recently awarded the Academic Achievement Wreath for outstanding scholarship in military science subjects. The awards were presented by Lt. Col. Raymond J. Raffaeli, LaSalle's ROTC commanding officer.

Cumberland Symphony To Have 7 New Members

Seven new members will appear with the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra for the first time at the opening concert of the season Tuesday at the Allegany High School auditorium.

Two new music teachers, four business men and a high school student are the new members of the orchestra, which this year will include 45 local and area musicians, according to Wilton Sykes, the conductor.

Miss Pauline Cira, who is instructor in string instruments in the Allegany County public schools for the first time this fall, is the orchestra's new concert mistress.

The other new music teacher in the local orchestra is Miss Ann Thompson, music instructor at the Cresaptown School. She plays the trombone. Her father, R. Finley Thompson, superintendent of the Celanese plant here, has been a member of the orchestra for several years.

Business men who are new members of the orchestra include Henry Herold, an ice cream salesman, percussion; Glen Kight, an insurance salesman, bass viol; William Drew, a concrete contractor, also a bass viol player, and Robert Tomsko, pharmacist, who plays clarinet in the orchestra.

Miss Adele Roberts, an Allegany High School student, is another new percussion member of the orchestra.

For the first time in the 11 seasons since World War II that the orchestra has operated, an advance ticket sale is being conducted. Members of the Men of Emmanuel from Emmanuel Episcopal Church have tickets. They also are on sale at Sykes Music Store, the S. T. Little Jewelry Company and the LaVale Drug Store.

This will be the second symphony concert in Cumberland this month. The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra presented a concert last night at the Fort Hill High School auditorium under sponsorship of the Times-News.

Gets Suspended Term In Theft Of Checks

William Radcliff, 21 Virginia Avenue, received a suspended 90-day sentence to Allegany County Jail on a charge of theft of three checks from Jack Parks, operator of Parks Body Works.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason imposed a two-year probation period for Radcliff after Radcliff had pleaded guilty to the charge in Trial Magistrates Court Wednesday.

Hungary Pins Hope For Freedom On U.N.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — A woman member of the Soviet-ousted coalition government in Hungary said yesterday her country is pinning its hopes for freedom on the United Nations.

Mrs. Anna Kethly, minister of state in the short-lived regime of Premier Imre Nagy, said Hungary needs no military intervention from a free world because it would only bring more bloodshed.

"The whole nation is bleeding and the Russians have embarked upon merciless repression," she told newsmen during a visit to AF-CIO headquarters.

Mrs. Kethly appealed for the free world's "moral and material support" to martial world opinion against Russia's invasion and occupation of Hungary.

Mrs. Kethly left Hungary just before the Russian army entered her country. She arrived in New York on Nov. 5. She is a leader of Hungary's Social Democratic party.

300 Cancel Passage

CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 15 (AP)—Officers of the liner Queen Elizabeth said on arrival that just before sailing from New York about 300 passengers canceled passage because of the war scare in Europe. The liner arrived with 300 passengers.

Feud Among Buddhist Monks Causes Tension

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 15 (AP)—A feud among Buddhist monks caused tension yesterday in Mandalay, where joyous religious ceremonies normally take place at this time of year.

Many Mandalay shops have been closed since a band of yellow-robed monks, armed with guns and swords, killed two other monks and wounded a third there Sunday.

Britain Offers Salvage Ships To Clear Canal

CHESTER, England, Nov. 15 (AP)—Britain's naval chief said last night the government will put a big force of salvage vessels at the disposal of the United Nations to clear the Suez Canal.

Lord Hailsham, first lord of the Admiralty, told a Conservative party rally the force being readied consists of 34 ships plus tugs and pontoons.

A score of wrecked vessels was sunk in the waterway during the Allied clash with Egypt, and clearing them out is expected to take several months.

New Book Debunks View Woodrow Wilson Was Cold Fish

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—A new book on Woodrow Wilson came out yesterday which debunks the widely held view of the World War I Democratic-president as a cold fish who never had any fun.

"The Irish in him deserves far more emphasis than it has received," it said.

The book, "The Greatness of Woodrow Wilson," is a compilation of articles dealing with various phases of the Virginia-born Wilson's career. The human side of Wilson is discussed in a chapter by Virginuis Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, who remembered the one-time professor as a warm, lovable and witty guest when he visited in the home of Dabney's parents in Charlottesville.

"Few, if any, presidents in our history have been so adept as storytellers, so prankish in their lighter moods, quicker in repartee, more affectionate in their intimate friendship or tenderer in the family circle than Woodrow Wilson," wrote Dabney.

He depicted Wilson, president from 1913 to 1921, as a man who:

Loved Gilbert and Sullivan.

Composed limericks and had a penchant for reciting them.

Was a superb storyteller and a mimic of rare talent.

"It would be ludicrous to picture him as behaving most of the time like an end man in a minstrel show," wrote Dabney, "but it would be equally so to regard him as a ruthless, opinionated person with ice waters in his veins."

Even during his serious illness, Wilson never lost his wit, said Debney. He recalled the visit of a congressional group which included Republican Sen. Albert Fall, who remarked, "Mr. President, we have all been praying for you."

"Which way, Senator," Wilson asked with a chuckle.

Memorial Voyage

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Darwin Anniversary Committee plans to retrace the round-the-world voyage of Charles Darwin, which helped the naturalist develop his theory of evolution.

The memorial voyage is planned for 1958, the centennial of the year Darwin presented his theory. Darwin's voyage on the British ship Beagle took five years, from 1831 to 1836.

Age Limit Lowered

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 (AP)—Canada's arm, lowered its age limit for overseas duty from 19 to 18 so 35 members of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, can go to the Middle East with their comrades.

Lt. Col. Clifford P. McPherson said the youngest wanted to go with the 900-man unit and all are fully trained.

National Affairs Today

WASHINGTON — How many of the people who voted last week to give the Democratic party control of Congress knew that by so doing they were giving the chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to a man 89 years old?

It happens that the prospective chairman — Democratic Senator Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island—is healthy and vigorous and possesses as keen a mind as many a man 50 years his junior. But, under the "seniority" system, any senator irrespective of his age or ability would have to be chosen chairman. For the "seniority system" means that the chairmen of committees in Congress are automatically chosen on the basis of their length of service in Congress irrespective of ability. It's a system that President Wilson, Democrat, asailed back in 1913, but the pressure of both Republican and Democratic veterans in Congress at the time was too powerful for him. Rather than risk a fight that could have ended in an impairment of Mr. Wilson's whole legislative program, the issue was dropped.

Tremendous Defect

But today the seniority system is still perhaps the most important single defect in congressional government. For the committee chairman can sometimes withhold legislation from being acted on, or he can maneuver hearings and meetings in such a way as to carry out his objectives or those of a minority pressure group. He can express opinions publicly at variance with the party leaders and still hold his chairmanship.

The alternative method is to let each of the parties in a conference of its own elect by secret ballot the chairman of a committee or the ranking member who is at times a sort of deputy chairman. A secret ballot would be essential to prevent reprisals or personal animosities from arising.

The seniority system could be abolished by party confefence, as it is not a matter of law, but of custom. If abandoned, there is no certainty that all of the present chairmen or ranking members would continue to hold their positions of power.

Discussion already has arisen, for example, with respect to two chairmanships in the Senate. Had the Republicans been given control by the people last week, there are two Republicans in the Senate now who announced beforehand to their constituencies that, if elected, they would not vote to elect Senator McCarthy to the chairmanship of the Senate Committee for Permanent Investigations—a position to which, by reason of length of service, he would be entitled. Similarly, there are Democrats in the Northern states who would naturally be pressured by their constituencies to vote against the selection of Senator Eastland of Mississippi, Democrat, who now is in line to become chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. This is the committee which handles civil rights legislation and the confirmation of the nominations of federal judges.

Big Factor

Yet, while there are many Republicans and Democrats who would like to vote to select someone else for the chairmanships above mentioned, they would not do so because, if the seniority system were abandoned, they themselves would nave nothing to which to look forward. A committee chairmanship often means considerable opportunity for publicity and prestige back home—and this is a big factor in a campaign for re-election.

In the case of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the chairman nowadays is the object of world-wide attention. Foreign ambassadors cultivate him socially. The Department of State depends on him to keep the committee from partisan interference in foreign relations. But the temptation is strong to be partisan, especially in selecting and handling the staff members who do much of the work for the committee.

It is doubtful whether any future Democratic chairman will lean over backward as has Senator Walter George of Georgia, to uphold the foreign policies of a Republican administration. Some of the Democratic senators have been sniping at the State Department's policies all along, though they must have known that, primarily, circumstances beyond America's control were shaping world events, and not the alleged absence of "planning" in the State Department.

Either Senator-elect Lausche of Ohio, or the new senator to be elected soon in Texas—if the issue is persuasively made in that campaign—can give control of the Senate to the Republicans, and bestow the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee on Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, a staunch supporter of President Eisenhower's foreign policies. That's the only way now to avoid one of the handicaps of "divided government," as Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Democrat, has so aptly described the result of last week's election of a Democratic Congress and a Republican President.

Denies Titoism Led To Hungary Revolt

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 15 (AP)—A member of the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Communist party denied last night that Titoism was responsible for the anti-Communist Hungarian revolt.

Veljko Vlahovic, writing in the party newspaper Borba, assailed "leading circles of some Communist parties" for trying to trace the uprising to Titoism.

The article, evidently written with the backing of President Tito, hinted at possible trouble between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union. Stalin kicked Tito's party out of the Cominform in 1948 for "nationalism." Since Stalin's death the Kremlin has been trying to win back Tito's support.

Vlahovic questioned the sincerity of the Soviet Union in signing a series of friendly agreements with Yugoslavia earlier this year.

He added the Yugoslavia will continue its policy of noninterference. This was interpreted here as meaning Tito has no intention of trying to mediate the Hungarian-Russian dispute, as has been rumored in Budapest.

Use of fire, candles or tobacco was strictly prohibited in the first capital building in colonial Williamsburg, Va.

Man Must Face Charges In Four States

A 30-year-old Somerset County man is finding it difficult paying his debt to society . . . . It seems there are just too many societies after his services.

The record of Jack Hilmer Jr., of Boswell, Pa., covers four states, and he may find it will take a long time for him to get back home in Somerset to finish a jail sentence imposed last August.

The story of Hilmer started last January in Cumberland when he was apprehended by Detective Joseph Stitcher on a forgery charge.

He was taken before Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason, waived a jury trial, and pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery.

Magistrate Mason gave the man a two-year suspended sentence in the Maryland House of Correction and ordered him held in Allegany County Jail on detainers from West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Authorities from all three states wanted the man for forgery.

Hilmer remained in the local lockup from January 16 until July 31 when he was turned over to authorities from Somerset, Pa.

Judge Thomas F. Lansberry of Somerset sentenced the man to one year in jail for passing two forged checks in a Somerset service station.

This past Tuesday, while in the midst of serving the one-year sentence, Hilmer waived extradition to Fredericksburg, Va., where he was given a two-year sentence on another forgery charge.

Somerset County authorities want Hilmer back eventually to finish his jail term there, but the return may be some time. It seems West Virginia police also want a crack at Hilmer, again for forgery, and the Mountaineers will get him on the first bounce from Virginia.

Thanksgiving Services Set By Churches

Plans for Thanksgiving services have been announced by two area Methodist churches.

Mt. Pleasant Church will hold its annual service at 7:30 p. m. on Thanksgiving Eve, with Rev. Adam E. Grim, pastor, in charge.

Rev. Mr. Grim, also pastor of Grace Church here, will conduct the annual service at that church on Thanksgiving Day at 10 a. m.

$4 Sewing Machine

MIYAZAKI, Japan, Nov. 15 (AP)—Kimisuke Kagiyama has invented and intends to manufacture a sewing machine that will sell for about $4. It is about the size of a human hand and is operated by rolling over cloth like a pressing iron.

City Ash Supply For Winter Is Reported Depleted

The threat of icy conditions during the coming winter season is placing another problem before city officials, Street Department spokesmen pointing out that only a limited supply of ashes is on hand.

The customary barrels of ashes and salt have been placed at strategic points in the hilly sections of town, most of the containers being filled with ashes.

For the past few years, the city has had difficulty in obtaining enough ashes to last through the icy season, and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz yesterday pointed out that the condition is being aggravated with the construction of the new bridges across Wills Creek.

Clauses in the contracts for the bridges, he pointed out, specifically prohibit the use of salt and sodium compounds on the approaches of the structures. These substances, Mr. Buchholtz said, tend to hasten the deterioration of the bridge decks, and the prohibition of their use is effective for a period of four years.

According to Andrew Heller, street superintendent, the city has only about 50 tons of cinders and 120 tons of salt in reserve. The cinder supply, he said, "is only enough for one good ice storm."

Pointing out that former supplies of cinders are no longer available, Mr. Heller said he is at a loss as to what will be used on streets after the first bad storm. Possibilities are screening methods to recover some of the cinders, or the use of sand.

A practically unlimited supply used to be available from the local yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Mr. Heller said, but since the dieselization of the rail firm cinders are no longer able to be obtained there.

Other industries where smaller supplies of cinders could be obtained have either converted to other forms of fuel, or else burn the coal into soot ash, Mr. Heller stated.

About 20 average sized houses can be built from the wood of one large redwood tree.

Market Again Closes Off As Result Of Late Selling

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — The stock market posted its second straight decline today as a result of late selling.

The market held its own through most of the day until a dispatch from Moscow reported Russia had sent notes on the Egyptian situation to Britain, France and Israel. Brokers said this news triggered the downturn as investors were nervous about the implications of the Moscow move.

Leading issues took losses of fractions to around 3 points. Steels and a number of specialties made gains of 1 to 2 points, but most advances were in small fractions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 90 cents to $177.-90, with industrials off $1, rails 60 cents and utilities 60 cents.

Of 1,158 issues traded, there were 519 losers and 378 gainers.

For the second day in succession, Vertientes-Camaguey Sugar was the most active stock, up ½ at 10¾ on 33,800 shares.

Second was Bethlehem Steel, up 1⅝ at 169⅜ on 28,300 shares. Third was Royal Dutch, off 1⅛ at 98⅛ on 26,000 shares.

South Africa, Ignoring Criticism, Moves To Enforce Separation Of Races

Editor's Note: South Africa, ignoring criticism from abroad, is pushing steadily ahead on a program to maintain separation of races permanently. This is the first of two articles reporting the effect of the program on the four racial groups that make up South Africa's population.

By M. A. JOHNSON

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 15 (AP)—Here at the foot of the Dark Continent the white man has chosen to stand firm against any attempt to give equality to men of darker skin.

Instead, government action has been initiated to deprive native Africans, Asians and persons of mixed blood of political, social and economic gains they acquired in earlier generations.

Today South Africa is moving steadily down the road of apartheid, which means separation of the country's races. There are no signs of turning back from the policy decreed by the nationalist government of Premier J. G. Strijdom, despite criticism from abroad and some dissension within South Africa.

Separation of the races in schools and almost all other places they might meet as equals has been traditional for most of the 300 years since the first white men settled in South Africa. It was enforced by custom. Now the law requires it.

The major new feature of Strijdom's apartheid policy is the establishment of seprate communities for the different races. Most black and brown skinned people who live in the white men's cities and towns are encouraged now to go back to communities of their own.

The great majority of whites favor racial segregation but there is some division over the wisdom of the new legislative program allowing little flexibility or hope of change.

In the view of its supporters, apartheid is necessary to prevent the whites—outnumbered 4-1 by the black and other colored races—from becoming submerged in a country the early white settlers developed.

There are nearly 3 million whites, who call themselves Europeans; some 9 million Africans, referred to here as natives or Bantus; about 1¼ million persons of mixed native and other blood who are called "coloreds" and occupy a higher rung on the social ladder than the Africans, and 410,000 Indians who were brought here from Asia to labor in the sugar fields.

Four million of the Africans live a tribal existence in native reserves set aside exclusively for their use. These cover 12.9 per cent of the country. The Africans on the reserves still barter cattle for wives and need advice of witch doctors. But today the blare of American jazz mingles with the beat of native drums in even the most remote areas.

Some 2½ million Africans in the towns and cities have tried to adjust themselves to the white man's way of life, mainly as menial laborers. These are the people most affected by apartheid. The remaining Africans work on the white man's farms.

The government has been classifying the racial groups into separate compartments with identity cars for each. For some persons of doubtful racial origin this has brought tragedy. Some members of the same family have been classified in different groups—the wife "colored" and the husband African, for instance—forcing separation and heartbreak. Colored persons, who often hold white collar jobs, stand to lose their social status and livelihood if classified as African.

Whole communities have been uprooted and moved to areas designated for them.

Twenty thousand Indians in Johnannesburg are to be moved to Lenasia, an undeveloped area 18 miles away where an all-Indian community is planned. For the 800 Indian shopkeepers in the city and their employes this means they will lose their businesses. They cater to the needs of the white economy and cannot survive by trading among themselves.

The government will reimburse them the value of their property, but not for the loss of their business.

The mass resettlement began last year when the first of 57,000 Africans in a Johannesburg slum area were sent to the new township of Meadowlands, 10 miles southwest of the city. Riots had been feared, so 2,000 police armed with Sten guns cordoned off the city's African section before the move. But the Africans accepted the resettlement peacefully and now seem to be content in their new township.

A leading opponent of apartheid is the Anglican archbishop of Capetown, the Most. Rev. Geoffrey Clayton. He says, "it is wrong to move people around like pawns, regardless of their wishes, to satisfy some ideology."

The Johannesburg Star has called the relocation of the Indians and the coloreds "mass callousness."

African native opponents of apartheid stated this view at a recent conference: "The situation in South Africa calls for cooperation and interdependence between the different races . . . This would not constitute a threat to the survival of the white man in South Africa. Apartheid constitutes a threat to race relations."

On the other hand, the government's minister of native affairs, Dr. H. F. Verwoerd, says: "Apartheid is the only hope for South Africa. Integration of the races is impossible if the white man wishes to continue in this country. It will only bring chaos and will lead eventually to black control of South Africa."

The government points to vast sums being spent to improve the housing, health services, education and general welfare of the Africans. It says it is making available to them greater opportunities for advancement to serve their own people.

Civil War Vet, 114, Makes Birthday Wish

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 15 (AP)—Walter W. Williams, the oldest of the three soldier survivors of the Civil War, made a birthday wish yesterday that his 83-year-old wife recover her health.

Williams spent his 114th birthday in bed. The serious illness of his wife prevented any celebration but members of the family called to deliver greetings to the former forage master of Hood's Texas brigade.

The Confederate veteran and his wife were brought here from their farm home near Franklin, 120 miles to the northwest. They are under medical treatment at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles.

Both have heart and kidney diseases.

Two Teen-Age Girls Are Being Held

Two teen-age girls were apprehended here Wednesday afternoon and are being held for action of Juvenile Court.

Detective Lt. James E. Van said the girls, both 14 years of age, were arrested Wednesday and lodged in the detention quarters of the Allegany County Infirmary.

One girl told police she is from Morgantown, W. Va., while the other said she resided in Catlettsburg, Ky.

Arrive From Germany

This refugee family, Kurt and Anna Zahn and their three-month-old son Kurt Joergson arrived this week from Hamburg, Germany, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Barton of McMullen Highway, Pinto. Kurt Zahn will be employed as a herdsman on the Barton dairy farm. At present they are living on the Barton farm in a new house trailer until their permanent home is completed. The family came to this country under the Immigration Act, revised in 1954, and under the sponsorship of the First Church of the Brethren, York, Pa. Mr. Barton's son-in-law Mr. Dale Crist is chairman of the Refugee Settlement there. The Zahn family speaks practically no English but they are thrilled at the opportunity of living in America and eventually becoming American citizens. They crossed the Atlantic by plane, arrived in New York Tuesday and at the Barton farm early Wednesday.

Westernport Group Seeks Traffic Light

WESTERNPORT — A delegation represented by Mrs. Homer Glass, Main Street, appeared before the Mayor and Council last night with an 85-name petition requesting a traffic stop light at Main Street extended and Waverly Terrace.

Mrs. Glass pointed out speed hazards in the area and said parked trucks also cause inconvenience.

Police Commissioner Leo Herbert was authorized to secure a traffic signal.

Clyde Michael, chairman, Louis Nasser and Paul Raesinger of the Potomac Fire Company discussed the need for more doctors in the Tri-Towns due to the expansion program of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

A meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the council chamber to discuss the problem. Clubs and other organizations were asked to attend.

Council also discussed curbing for Ross Street, but no immediate action was taken. Vouchers amounting to $39,271.13 were approved.

It was announced that garbage will be picked up Wednesday instead of Thursday next week. The regular Friday collection will remain the same.

Hill Street PTA Places Education Week Emphasis On Youth And Study Groups

FROSTBURG — The 36th year of American Education Week was observed at Hill Street School, Wednesday at 1 p. m. The parents met in the auditorium where John Manley, principal, gave the welcome and presented the theme for the week, "Schools For A Strong America" and the topic for the day, "Schools For Trained Manpower" with the sub-topic, "Lending A Helping Hand." He discussed the meaning of education and read a poem, "A Boy's Request."

Mrs. Clara Mae Vogtman, PTA president, greeted the parents and extended an invitation to attend the next meeting to be held on Monday evening, November 26. Mrs. Vogtman closed her invitation with the question, "Why do you and millions of other busy americans with many other interests give so generously of your time and energies without salary or reward?" The answer she stated: "You care about children."

Mrs. Jeanetta McFarland, chairman of the Parent-Child Study Group, outlined the program of the group for the year. She also read the pledge the group has written to be used at all meetings. It is, "I pledge to get as much help as possible from the Parent-Child Study Group course and to feel free to discuss my own personal problems. I pledge to keep all problems discussed within the group and under no circumstances discuss them outside our meetings." She invited the parents to attend the next meeting of the study group.

Mr. Manley then closed the session with a prayer for wisdom. Registration for parents and class visitation was then held, with the parents observing regular classroom lessons.

Later the parents returned to the auditorium where refreshments were served by the faculty.

Bruce High School Glee Club To Give Christmas Concert

WESTERNPORT — The Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church will sponsor a Christmas Concert to be presented at the church by the Bruce High School Glee Club under the direction of Miss Betty Jean Withrow, vocal music instructor of the school.

The tentative date and time has been set for Sunday, December 23 at 8:45 p. m.

The worship service of the monthly meeting of the Guild was held Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Billie Jane Fleek, Maryland Avenue, was led by Miss Pauline Whiteman.

The theme of the program directed by Mrs. Henrietta Kazlo was "United Nations." Others taking part in it were: Miss Adair Welton, Miss Phyllis Adams, Mrs. Norma Kohne, Mrs. Esther Uhl and Mrs. Fleek.

Reports of the recent conference of the Guild held at Clarksburg, W. Va., were given by Mrs. Fleek and Miss Welton.

Following the program a stork shower was given in honor of Mrs. Mary Lou Metcalf, Keyser, a member of the group.

Refreshments were served. Miss Welton was the assisting hostess.

The Christmas meeting will be held at the home of Miss Anna Lee Withrow, West Fairview Street, Piedmont, December 4.

Future Teachers List Officers

KEYSER — The newly organized Future Teacher's Club is planning for the adoption of a national organization charter.

Serving the club as officers are Wayne Arnold, president; Barbara Combs, vice president; La Rue Frye, secretary; Krista Leatherman, treasurer; Donna Lee, historian, and Norma Baker, publicity chairman.

Betty Wotring heads the committee to write the constitution. Committeemen are LaRue Frye, Barbara Combs and Mary Virginia Selario. The constitution is to be approved by the club and submitted to the faculty for approval before being adopted.

Setting the date for the meetings as the second Friday in each month at 3:15 p. m., the club plans to prepare programs to further the interest in the teaching profession.

Group To Meet In Lonaconing

LONACONING — Allegany County's delegates and state senator will meet with a group of business men Tuesday, November 27, at 8 p. m. in the Lonaconing Council Chamber.

State Sen. Charles M. See and Del. Lester B. Reed, chairman of the delegation, said they will also be available to hear anyone else who wishes to talk to them concerning proposed legislation of the 1957 session of the General Assembly.

VHS Jr. Tri-Hi-Y Selects Name

LONACONING — The Junior Tri-Hi-Y of Valley High School held a meeting Monday afternoon and voted to change its name to "Challengers." The new constitution was read and adopted.

A discussion was held concerning the grocery basket to be sent to Miners Hospital at Thanksgiving time. All members were asked to bring an article for the basket.

Betty Ann Kirkwood was elected to the office of chaplain to replace Betty Jo Howell who resigned. The next meeting will be held later this month.

Thanksgiving Dance Planned At Valley

LONACONING — A Thanksgiving dance will be held Wednesday, November 21, at Valley High School gym sponsored by the Senior Tri-Hi-Y.

"Bill and Leon" will play music for dancing. A jitterbug contest and cake walk will be held.

Maplehurst Club Schedule Dance

FROSTBURG — An informal dance will be held this evening at Clary Club by the Maplehurst Country Club of Frostburg

E. B. Van Fossen, who is general chairman of the informal dance, which is open to the public, said that it will be held from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m.

Music will be provided by Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra. Tickets may be purchased from any of the members or at the door. Prizes will be awarded during the evening.

Skidmore Store Will Be Closed

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Catherine Skidmore, proprietor of the Skidmore Wall Paper Store on East Main Street, announced that following the close of the sale now underway on all merchandise, she will close the business.

The wife of the late Mayor Marshall Skidmore, she has been operating the store alone since 1952 when her husband became ill.

The business, formerly known as the J. J. Rodda and Company, was purchased by the Skidmores in 1944. Prior to that it had been operated by John J. Rodda, a former city commissioner, and his sister, Mrs. R. O. Layman. The business, started by their father, had been operated for over 52 years up to the time it changed hands.

Mining Classes Begin 1956-57 Sessions

FROSTBURG — Frank Powers, chief of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, announced that the 1956-57 sessions of the night mining classes sponsored by the bureau got underway with the first class being held in Barton Elementary School last night. Another class will begin tonight at 7 o'clock in the Science Hall of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Classes are being taught by Thomas B. Powell and James Close, inspectors for the Bureau of Mines. The course will cover all phases of operating a mine safely and will include timbering, ventilation, the uses of approved explosives, first aid and other related subjects. For those men completing the course, an examination will be prepared for a first class mine foreman's certificate or a service certificate.

Powers also said that with the increased activity in the coal business he anticipates a good attendance at both classes. Another class for miners of the Kitzmiller area was organized last Monday and will meet weekly in the community buildings. All classes will be in session once a week until May, 1957.

Hunting And Fishing Is A Big Business

From St. Louis comes the handsome magazine of the Monsanto Chemical Company. The front cover of its current issue is devoted to a series of eight color photos showing how a mallard drake lands on water and takes off again. By no coincidence the pictures were taken by Edgar Monsanto Queeny, president of the firm, whose highspeed photography of birds is well-known to the brotherhood of naturalists.

The leading article (with more duck pictures) describes the low ebb of waterfowl in the 1930s—and how the outfit called Ducks Unlimited spurred new production by restoring marshes in Canada.

Hardly an issue of "Better Living" (the DuPont employe magazine) comes out but has pictures showing employes and their families enjoying themselves fishing or hunting. Similar magazines of other big firms do likewise. Management likes to point with pride to the outdoor fun available to their well-paid employes in leisure time.

In all this trend, however, only now has business and industry been given the full facts on another side of fishing and hunting; their economic place in American purchasing power. Often it has not been clear how to justify the cost (tax-wise) of conservation projects as compared with the known benefits. These facts are now available in the pamphlet, "National Survey of Fishing and Hunting," just put out by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service of the Interior Department.

This is an eye-opener. For instance: One in every three households in America has one or more fishermen or hunters. They spent $3 billion in 1955 on their sport, for equipment (rods, guns, boats, motors, clothing, and the like), and for accommodations. They traveled 10 billion car-miles — for fishing and hunting purposes alone.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Shifting Scene

T. Coleman Andrews who used to be a tax collector and became the leading American antagonist of the income tax, running for president on the new party ticket, made an interesting point in his acceptance speech for the States' Rights Party:

". . . I'm not advocating a return to one-room schools or to the era in which they made their magnificent contributions to the achievement of our unparalleled greatness. But there wasn't any federal aid in those days, my friends. Washington didn't have any federal aid. Jefferson didn't have any. Lincoln didn't have any. Ford didn't have any. The Wright brothers didn't have any. None of the greats who started America on the road to glory had any.

"But I'll tell you what they did have. They had freedom—freedom to dream and freedom to do and achieve, unhampered by ruinous taxation and bureaucratic interference."

The distinction that is really being drawn is between a pioneer people who do not resent dirt under the finger-nails and a settled, accepting people who regard the refinements of living as more important than the joys of achievement. It is not quite true to put the whole American people in either category. What is true is that great changes have taken place during the past 50 years, changes in our mode of living and in our habits of thought.

American restlessness has not disappeared and is is evidenced by a constantly shifting population as well as by the development of altogether new industries and new means of employment. There is no evidence that the standards of life are better although there is evidence of vast improvements in the housing and household facilities of all elements of the population with a general tendency of eliminating the proletariat altogether. Despite depressions and wars, no peasantry and no European-style proletariat have developed in the United States. This is a middle-class country and few Europeans of wealth enjoy better facilities of living than the American worker and farmer.

On the other hand, a definite European-style public official has appeared in permanent form. The German beamte is upon us, the bureaucrat, the man who makes a small living and a greater or lesser career out of being a government official and whose particular joy in life is in governing the lives of others. He seeks to concentrate in his hands if not power surely authority which he often exercises with a mighty arm to the discomfiture of the American people who are not accustomed to that sort of thing. This was originally a product of the depression when made jobs seemed to be the thing and it was augmented by the necessities of war. Somehow there seems to be no end to excessive government employment.

Heretofore in American history, the people regarded a government official as one who having failed in other fields, took a government job. There was little respect for such a man, particularly in the middle class where storekeepers were becoming manufacturers and manufacturers millionaires, and the go-getter was regarded as an ideal. There is a vast, if subtle change, in the outlook of this nation between the time of Elbert Hubbard who glorified the self-made millionaire and today when feature stories are written about such persons as Walter Reuther, George Meany and David Dubinsky. Perhaps these labor leaders are the current type of self-made man and we may one day get an Horatio Alger to inspire youth not to make money but to get on in union politics.

This change is reflected in the politics of the nation, particularly in the kind of man who is a United States senator and who only too often represents the laboring third of his state rather than the economic upper tenth as in the time of Mark Hanna.

These changes are fundamental and are not the products of the New Deal, the Fair Deal or the Eisenhower middle course. They are products of the lessening in the pioneer elements in the American population and the growth of political and economic power among farmers and workers who in the aggregate possess larger purchasing power, more savings and more political force than the upper middle class, which grows increasingly poorer as taxes deprive them of their advantage.

Premature Cease-Fire In Egypt Helped Kremlin

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

The Soviet Union has now scored a gigantic victory in the Middle East, more than important enough to compensate for the Kremlin's severe setback in the satellite area of Eastern Europe.

So much is clear. Even among the administration policymakers, the almost hysterical emotions generated by pique against the British and French are now beginning to subside. In this calmer atmosphere, the magnitude of the Kremlin's triumph is beginning to be reluctantly and ruefully admitted. The admissions are all the more rueful because the Kremlin's triumph was altogether needless.

The Anglo-Franco-Israeli intervention in Egypt may have been mistaken. It may have been immoral. It may have been ill-planned. But in fact, the operation was succeeding rather brilliantly when everything that had been gained was lost again by a premature cease-fire.

Military Power Exposed

The main success was owing to the Israelis, rather than to the British and French. The foundation stone of Egyptian prestige and influence throughout the Arab countries has always been the belief that Egypt's Colonel Nasser possessed serious military power. The belief was vastly strengthened, and Nasser's influence rose proportionately, when Nasser made his arms deal with the Kremlin last summer. But in a few short days last week, a small, relatively poorly equipped Israeli expeditionary force showed that Nasser's vaunted military power was the most transparently phoney sort of busted flush.

In the Sinai Peninsula and the Gaza Strip, 12,000 to 15,000 Israelis took on 25,000 to 30,000 Egyptians. The Egyptians enjoyed the double advantage of defending prepared positions and possessing rather better and more ample equipment. But in the outcome, the Israelis won a total victory. The whole Egyptian force was atomized, leaving all their artillery and tanks and some 4,000 prisoners in Israeli hands. Meanwhile the Israelis suffered only a few score casualties.

The object of the Israelis, and of course of the British and French too, was to topple Colonel Nasser from his throne as unofficial emperor of Pan-Arabia. This object had in fact been attained by the Israeli victory in Sinai, which was immeasurably more important than the later British and French landings at Suez. Even today, after all the fruits of the victory have been so eagerly thrown away, the American government is receiving convincing reports from Cairo of serious opposition to Nasser in government and army circles. The source of this disaffection is the defeat of the Egyptian army by the Israelis.

Policy Designed Wrong

Unfortunately, American policy was never designed to make the best of the bad business of the Anglo-France-Israeli operation in Egypt. Instead our policy seemed to be chiefly designed to punish the British, French and Israelis for their disobedience to big brother State Department. Hence we joined with the Soviets at the United Nations. We placed the utmost pressure on London, Paris and Jerusalem to accept an immediate cease-fire. And we paid very little attention to the possibility that we were thus making a bad business a lot worse.

This was precisely what happened when the Soviets decided to intervene in the Middle Eastern crisis more forcefully and on a larger scale. Even now, the circumstances of this Soviet action are not widely understood in this country. In brief, the big troop movements that had already been necessitated by the trouble in the European satellites, were now used by the Kremlin to convey an impression of menace to Western Europe. There were even planted reports of the entry of Soviet divisions into Czechoslovakia and of threats of attacks on Austria and Yugoslavia.

Against this carefully arranged background of menace, Bulganin sent his so-called ultimatum to London and Paris demanding an immediate cease fire. Both the British and French governments had already been thoroughly softened up by American pressure. In addition, the British government was afflicted by divided councils. At least one of the British Conservative big three, R. A. Butler, is now known to have been strongly opposed to Sir Anthony Eden's policy, and he had with him other members of the cabinet besides the junior ministers who have now resigned.

Turned On Israel

Even so, the British and French might have rejected Bulganin's ultimatum if they could have hoped for American support. But President Eisenhower, while opposing Soviet intervention in the Middle East, was also saying the same things to London and Paris that Moscow was saying. The only difference was in the tone of voice. Hence the British and French caved in, and agreed to an immediate and unconditional cease-fire in Egypt.

The State Department then turned on Israel, angrily threatening to expel the Israelis from the United Nations if Prime Minister Ben Gurion refused to withdraw his troops from Egypt. So the Israelis caved in, too; and humpty-dumpty Nasser was triumphantly put back on the wall again. The reasons why this must prove to be a specifically Soviet triumph on the greatest scale are inherent in the foregoing history, but they deserve further analysis.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

My favorite candidate is the fellow who was swept into office on a reform wave. And out the same way.

When you go surf-boarding into people's habits don't make waves when people drown in ripples. The statistics on the compulsory epidemic prove only the outs want reform. The ins are as contented as a kitten running a chromatic scale of cream-fed purrs.

Most reformers are anemic. Some are as sincere as a fisherman in the rain.

But even the best are summarized by the old Quaker's advice, "When about to trade a lame hoss wear thy broadest hat."

The outs broad-hat the plebiscite until victorious. Then they forget their promises like a bigamist with a road map.

The essence of the aftermath is the Democrats reform the Republicans and twice as versa. The Republicans reform the Democrats. What's smorgas for the goose is bord for the gander.

Indicating that a third party would merely complicate the pattern without reducing the fallout.

Doctor Follows Various Steps In Heart Check

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How does the physician go about examining your heart? Checkups of this type usually begin with a discussion about how you feel and whether there is a reason for suspecting heart trouble.

Persons who have had rheumatic fever are candidates for leakage of the heart, whereas those with high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries are more likely to have enlargement of the organ, angina pectoris, or coronary thrombosis.

Heart disease may exist without symptoms, or symptoms may be present with no evidence of heart disease. Angina pectoris is an example. The individual has chest pain but the physician may not be able to detect any abnormality of the heart.

Such discrepancies during the early stages of cardiac disease lead to confusion and also explain why a man may be given a clean bill of health and collapse 10 minutes after leaving the physician's office. The individual with well established heart trouble, however, usually follows a typical pattern and the cause is not hard to find.

The heart examination is an art acquired through experience and repetition. The physician listens with a stethoscope to determine whether the valves are damaged or the tones of good quality. He taps the chest to estimate the size and shape of the old ticker, in much the same way a carpenter taps the wall to find the studs. The sounds coming from the part of the chest containing air are hollow, whereas they are dull or flat over the dense muscle of the heart

The blood pressure test reveals the tension within the arteries during contraction of the heart (systolic) and rest (diastolic). The pulse is taken to determine whether the old ticker is beating fast or slow, regularly or irregularly.

But there is a limit on how much the examination will disclose. The electro-cardiogram is a more sensitive device and will uncover hidden defects of the heart muscle and irregularities in the timing mechanism. The graph follows a definite pattern that is as distinct and constant as finger prints. A change represents damage to the heart muscle.

The X-ray and fluoroscope offer information on the size and shape of the heart. During the last few years, several blood tests, such as transaminase and the C-reactive protein, have become available. These tests give the physician another tool to unearth heart disease in an early stage when treatment is more effective.

TOMORROW: Fatigue encourages accidents.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Old man Crowther pulled at the coat lapel of the owner of the crossroads store and cackled into his ear, "I'm not allowed to talk tonight, Ed. Doctor's orders. He says this hoarseness can get real serious if I aggravate it. Don't say a word to anyone, he warns me. So I aim to do just exactly what he says. Danged if I want to lose my voice for keeps. So if you'll just bring out a sheet of paper and a pencil, Ed, I reckon I'll write down what I want to buy and you can get it for me just as easy as if I come in here and spent five minutes describing it to you."

The owner of the store provided the paper and pencil and Old Man Crowther carefully wrote out "one can of terbaccy."

Harry Bauer, director of libraries at the University of Washington, points out that most biographies fall into two categories: autobiographies and ought-not-to-biographies.

President Has Changed His Mind About Using Force In Near East

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Eisenhower's handling of the Near East crisis recalls a significant private remark he made on December 31, 1950, the last day he served as president of Columbia University.

Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania, the late Russell Davenport of Life magazine; Russell Forgan, the stockbroker; and John Bennett, New York Republican, were gathered in his office. Eisenhower had just been appointed by Truman to command the newly formed NATO military setup in Paris. He told his friends:

"The Western world, for survival, will have to maintain shipping lanes to countries with critical materials, especially oil and manganese. We have not handled the Arab situation too intelligently, and if the Kremlin should move into the oil fields of Saudi Arabia and if the decision were mine to make, I would use the atomic bomb to destroy those oil fields."

Eisenhower picked up a steel paperweight from his desk. "Do you gentlemen realize," he said, "that we cannot make one pound of steel without manganese? And one of the chief suppliers of manganese is India."

High officials who have conferred at the White House in the last 10 days say that Ike today does not believe in using the same degree of force to protect the Suez Canal. Certainly he would not use the A-bomb. Last week he sent strong messages to Prime Minister Eden and Premier Mollet of France, urging that they accept a cease-fire in order to prevent any possible threat of Russian aggression.

He "Invented" Lausche

Adlai Stevenson was visiting in Ohio with Gov. Frank Lausche, now senator-elect from Ohio. With him was his press secretary, Clayton Fritchey, former ace reporter for the Cleveland Press.

"Do you know Clayton Fritchey?" Stevenson asked Lausche.

"Know him? He invented me!"

What Lausche referred to was the fact that, when mayor of Cleveland, he couldn't make up his mind whether to run for governor of Ohio or not. Never before had a Catholic been elected to that high office. Fritchey told Lausche to run, predicted he would make it. He gave Lausche encouragement not only to run, but later to become the first man in history to be five times governor of Ohio.

Merry-Go-Round

Some years ago, after Harry Truman tagged me with certain well-known initials, someone addressed a letter to me as follows: "S-O-B." With unerring accuracy the postman brought it to me in Washington. After I told about this in the Saturday Evening Post this week, I received a letter from Cecil F. Whitehead, Anderson, Ind. He addressed the envelope with no name — only a picture of me clipped from the Saturday Evening Post. Again the postman with unerring accuracy delivered the letter to my front door. . . . One man who had much to do with switching the 20-year Democratic trend in West Virginia was Bradley Nash, former assistant to the secretary of the Air Force and GOP candidate for Congress in West Virginia. Knowing that the United Mine Workers' vote was all-important, Nash went to John L. Lewis' political adviser, Bob Howe, got his permission to talk to district mine leaders in West Virginia. He buttonholed most of them, found them receptive to Republicans, not too receptive politically to John L. Lewis. . . . Chappy Revercomb, new GOP senator-elect from West Virginia, may do an Arthur Vandenberg. Revercomb was so isolationist and so anti-some racial groups in 1948 that candidate Tom Dewey refused to go to West Virginia. Friends say that he's now seeing the light of day and, like the late Senator Vandenberg, may become something of a liberal. . . . Biggest debt owed by the Democrats in their million-dollar deficit is to the telephone company and the airlines. . . . Adlai Stevenson considers himself responsible for helping pay it. He will make speeches at Democratic dinners all over the country. . . . Staff members of the Democratic National Committee are resigning wholesale. No money to pay salaries. . . . Mrs. Joe Clark, wife of the new senator-elect from Pennsylvania, is being billed in Washington as the most taciturn of all Senate wives. Interviewed in Philadelphia about her husband's terrific victory, Mrs. Clark was asked, "Are you thrilled with the election?" She replied, " You can assume so."

H-Bomb Boomerang

Here is an unreported incident in the recent election campaign which illustrates one reason the Democrats lost: Dissension and lack of money.

It is no secret that many Democrats disagreed with Adlai Stevenson about the wisdom of his political strategy in proposing the end of H-bomb tests. They felt that, while he was right scientifically, he was wrong politically. There wasn't enough time to get the complicated question of the H-bomb across to the American public.

However, when Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee made a speech in Kentucky on the H-bomb, he was completely understandable and extremely effective.

"I know what I'm talking about," said Gore. "I am a member of the Atomic Energy Committee that has all of the secrets. I know more about it than the President because I have taken the time to study the facts and he hasn't. I can tell you that strontium 90 can be and has been fatal. I can tell you that many of the scientists of the United States are worried about the future of the American people if these tests continue."

Gore was so effective that Sen. Earle Clements telephoned Stevenson's campaign manager, James Finnegan, urging that a nationwide telecast be arranged for Senators Gore, Anderson of New Mexico, Jackson of Washington, and Pastore of Rhode Island — all Democratic members of the Atomic Energy Committee. Clements argued that, with their insight on hydrogen-bomb information, a joint broadcast by this array of senators would carry terrific weight with the nation.

"Ok, if you can raise $100,000," replied Finnegan.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

What is the smallest theater in the world presenting regular stage productions? Certainly it must be the Theatre De Poche in Paris which seats only 60 people. Another interesting Paris show shop is the Chatelet, which features a revolving stage. I wish the revolving stage idea would be used more in New York. I am growing weary of those one-set plays. The Grand Guignol is still popular in Paris. Its programs consist of four short plays, two comedies and two horror dramas. The Grand Guignol horror plays are real spine chillers. Anybody with a weak heart who views one is taking a chance.

SHOPPING

The well-known Bon Marche department store is about the same size as Macy's or Gimbel's in Manhattan. Perhaps a little larger. Incidentally, my girl friend took off for another shopping section. It is what Madison Avenue is to New York. I am worried. Not about what she will spend. But she may shop so much we will have to get another piece of baggage. Keeping track of the 12 pieces we have has me tired of baggage.

PLEASE NOTE

Have completely mastered the metric system. Can now quickly transfer kilos into pounds, kilometers into miles and meters into furlongs. It was Napoleon Bonaparte who introduced the metric system into France. He also originated the idea of odd and even house numbers on different sides of the street. He was also responsible for the introduction of canned foods. He offered a prize for a method of preserving food for armies on the march. The canned food idea resulted.

HARRY'S BAR

Harry's New York Bar on the Rue Danou continues to enjoy great popularity. It was at Harry's some years ago that a bartender named Charters originated an unusual cocktail. This drink, the 'Charters Cocktail" was so powerful that after drinking a couple, men went outside and tried to stop moving automobiles with their hands. Women who drank it rushed out on the street and began taking their clothes off. The police stepped in and ordered the sale of the Charters Cocktail discontinued. I have never been able to learn the ingredients of this drink.

SIDELIGHTS

Paris weather reminds me that Holland has 200 rainy days a year. No Hollander ever leaves home without his raincoat. . . Rotterdam is the third largest seaport in the world. New York is first, London is second. If you can name the fourth largest port you don't have to send me a stogie. . . Hollanders start studying foreign languages at the public schools at the age of six. That's why so many Hollanders speak four languages. Their own, French, German and English.

DUTCH BARBER

One tobacconist in Amsterdam offers Brazilian cigars for sale. These are the blackest cigars I have ever seen. I may try one. But not today. This afternoon I am scheduled to get my hair cut by a Dutch barber. That's sufficient experimental activity for one day. I have been instructed how to say in Dutch: "Short on the back and sides. Nothing off the top." Also how to say: "No shampoo" and "no tonic."

PRONUNCIATION

Have learned much about the Dutch on my visit bu had difficulty in pronouncing the name of Vincent Van Gogh. That is, so it satisfies the natives. They say I don't handle the gutteral angle properly. Oh, well, I am not discouraged. A fellow who has mastered the correct pronunciation of Los Angeles certainly should be able to master that of Van Gogh.

HISTORY

How are you on Dutch history? Do you remember that the Dutch once had a war that lasted 80 years? That was from 1568 to 1648. Hundreds of thousands of Hollanders never knew in their entire life a time when their country was at peace.

FOOD ADDITIVES

P. T. writes: Are the chemicals that are added to food harmful to the health? I always read the labels on packages and notice, for example, that sodium nitrate and sodium propionate are added to various foods to prevent or retard spoilage.

REPLY

Most of the food additives are harmless in the amount used. From time to time a manufacturer adds a toxic substance that gets by until the Food and Drug Administration catches up with it. Reliable members of the food industry try their best to maintain high standards because they are out of business if they make a mistake along this line.

THYROID AND THE HEART

J. W. writes: Could an overactive thyroid gland lead to a fatal heart attack?

REPLY

Yes. Thyroid overactivity increases the heart action and causes irregularities of the beat. Unless the disturbance is corrected, the old ticker is likely to wear out.

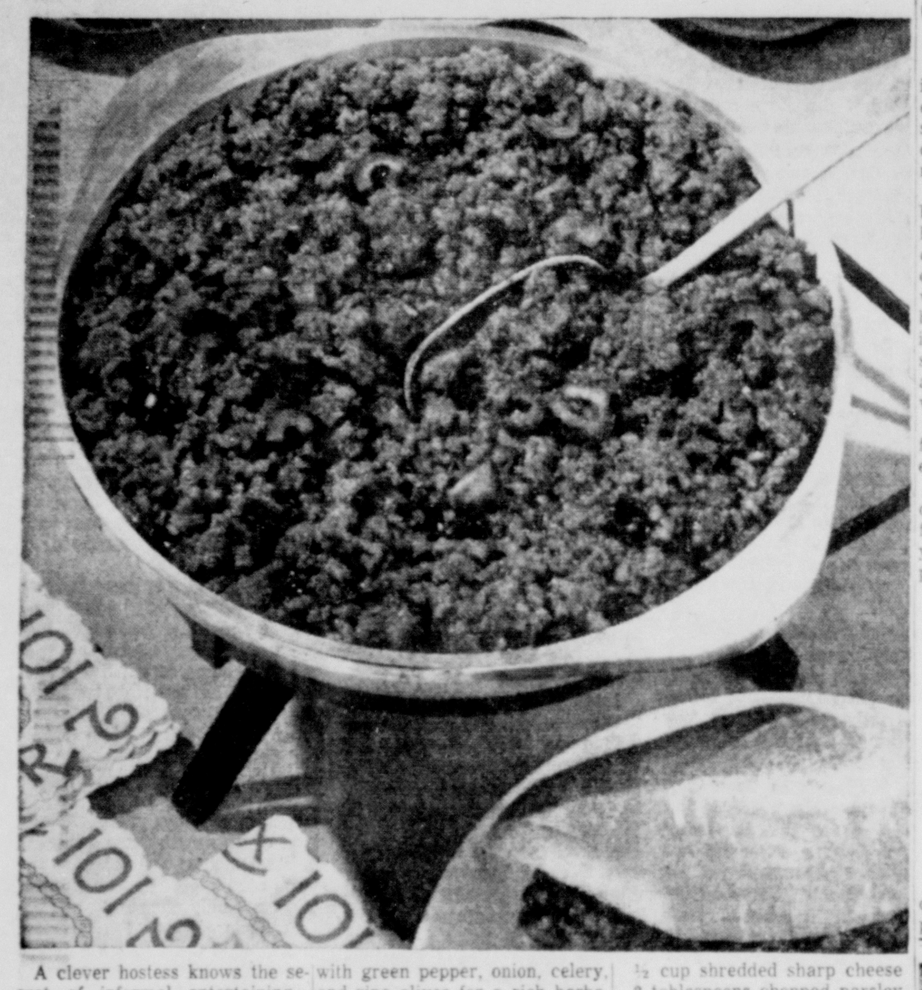
Informal Entertaining Is Easy With Barbecue 'Burgers, Buffet Style



A clever hostess knows the secret of informal entertaining—she prepares an easy menu and lets her guests serve themselves. Whether she's planned a supper on the back porch or snacks in the game room, a successful hostess knows that family and guests alike are fond of eating buffet style.

A chafing dish is handy for use on a buffet table, and a main course which lends itself well to both chafing dish and buffet service is barbecued 'burgers. The barbecue mixture can be made early in the day and then reheated and placed in the dish at serving time. Guests can make their own sandwiches as they pass by the buffet.

Unusual buns for these barbecue sandwiches can be made from a loaf of long French bread. Slice the bread in half lengthwise and then cut diagonal slices about four inches long crosswise. An average loaf of bread will make 6 or 8 buns. Toast and butter the bread before spooning on the hot mixture, if you prefer.

This barbecue mixture uses ground beef, an especially economical meat for serving a crowd, and has a nice consistency for easy spooning on the bread. The ground beef is cooked with green pepper, onion, celery, and ripe olives for a rich barbecue flavor. Double this recipe for more servings.

Barbecue 'Burger Mix

1½ pounds ground beef
2 tablespoons fat
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped ripe olives
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
¼ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Brown beef in melted fat. Add onion, green pepper, and celery, and cook 5 minutes or until tender. Add remainin gingredients, cover pan and cook over low heat 20 to 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Hamburger Pizza is another ground beef dish perfect for informal entertaining. Seasoned ground beef is spread in a pie pan and layers of well-drained, cooked tomatoes and shredded sharp cheese are spread on top. Here is the recipe:

Hamburger Pizza

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup well-drained, cooked tomatoes
½ cup shredded sharp cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon dried basil
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion

Mix ground beef with salt and pepper. Pat out in a 9-inch pie pan. Spread tomatoes over hamburger and sprinkle with the remaining ingredients. Bake in a 350° F. oven 20 minutes. Cut in wedges to serve. 4 servings.

Barbecue Used For Many Meats

For you who like barbecued meat and especially barbecued spareribs . . . try barbecuing other meats such as lamb shanks, ground beef, or veal chops. Just use your favorite barbecue sauce and show the family Mom has discovered a new taste teaser.

Timely Meat Tips

Remember — simplicity is the keynote of any garnish. Carve all meats, except steaks, across the grain. Piercing meat with a fork during cooking causes a loss of the meat juices. To braise meats, simmer, never boil — you're sure to have meats that are more tender and juicy.

Liver Chow Mein Is OK Dish

Meat plays an important part in the nutritional satisfaction we derive from our meals, and deservedly so. Meat, without a doubt, is the hub of the meal for most American families.

The mention of the word meat brings to the minds of many homemakers roasts, steaks or chops, but let's not forget or overlook the number of different variety meats . . . liver, sweetbreads, heart and tongue. Liver is an exceptionally outstanding source of protein and certain vitamins and minerals . . . iron, B-vitamins and vitamin A.

Liver should appear on the family dinner table at least once every two weeks.

Liver Chow Mein is a new and different variation . . . one the family will enjoy so much that you're sure to have calls for repeat performances.

Liver Chow Mein

1½ pounds sliced liver
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 cup diced celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) tomatoes
1 can Chinese vegetables
6 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons head molasses
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper Chinese noodles

Dice liver and brown in lard or drippings. Add celery, green pepper and tomatoes, allow to simmer about 20 minutes. Add drained Chinese vegetables. When heated through, thicken with cornstarch blended with molasses and soy sauce and enough water to make a pouring consistency. Season to taste. Serve on Chinese noodles. Yield. 8 servings.

Pork Loin Accompaniment

For those who like new variations of a popular food, here is a wonderful holiday idea. Sweet Potato Puffs add an attractive accent to a festive pork loin roast. How? Simply cut 4 marshmallows in half. Then shape ¼ cup of mashed sweet potatoes around each marshmallow half. Roll in crushed corn flakes and fry in deep hot lard (360° F.) until brown. Then drain on absorbent paper.

Why A Rack?

What's the advantage of using a rack in an open roasting pan? It keeps the meat out of the drippings and permits the circulation of the heat under and around the meat.

Turkey A La Queen Has Green Grapes, Currants And Almonds

We're using some "fractured French" in calling this main dish "Turkey A La Queen" or "in the manner of a queen." However, the dish is certainly tasty enough for a queen— and your family will also appreciate this delicious and unusual food combination.

You can use left-over turkey or chicken. A sauce is made by diluting condensed cream of mushroom soup. Turkey and green seedless grapes are added and heated until very hot. This creamed mixture is served over rice cooked with dried currants. A generous amount of slivered almonds are sprinkled on top.

Turkey A La Queen

Ingredients:

1 cup uncooked white rice; 1 teaspoon salt; 2 cups and 2 tablespoons water; ⅓ cup dried red currants, washed and drained; 1, 10½ oz. can condensed cream of mushroom soup; ¾ cup milk; ⅛ teaspoon black pepper; 2 to 2½ cups coarsely diced or shredded turkey or chicken; 1 cup Thompson seedless grapes; ⅓ cup slivered almonds, toasted.

Method: Put the rice, salt, water and currants in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on until realy to serve or at least 10 minutes.

While ther ice cooks, mix the mushroom soup, milk and pepper in a saucepan. Gently stir in the turkey or chicken and the grapes. Heat over a low heat or over hot water until very hot.

After the rice cooks, spoon over a hot platter or on serving plates. Top with the creamed turkey and grapes. Sprinkle the almonds over the top.

Mom Plans Festive Brunch

Brunch Sandwich

1½ pounds pork sausage links
2 tablespoons water
8 slices white bread, toasted
1 cup jellied cranberry sauce, crushed
¾ cup grated American cheese

Place pork sausage links in a frying pan. Add 2 tablespoons water. Cover, simmer 8 to 10 minutes. Remove cover, pour off drippings and brown. Spread 2 tablespoons cranberry sauce on each slice of toast. Place sausage over cranberry sauce, using 3 sausages for each slice of bread. Sprinkle grated American cheese over the top. Place sandwiches on broiler pan and insert about 2 inches from heart for 5 minutes, or until cheese melts. Yield: 8 servings.

Spanish Pork Chops

A bit of foreign flavor is found in thie recipe. Pork chops are attractively braised in a spicy vinegar and catchup mixture. First brown 6 rib or loin chops in a frying-pan and season with ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix together ¼ cup catchup and 1 teaspoon dry mustard and spread on chops. Combine ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup water and 2 tablespoons of sugar and place over chops. Cover the frying-pan tightly and simmer for 45 minutes or until done.

Apples, eaten as fresh fruit, help the system to absorb the calcium in other foods. Apples are also a good source of Vitamin A whcih helps ward off colds and other infections, according to findings reported by Washington State apple growers.

Turnover Of County Teachers Third Lowest In State

Only two other counties in Maryland have a lower rate of teacher turnover than Allegany County, according to figures supplied by the Maryland Teachers Association.

Information obtained from the State Department of Education reveals that 16.2 per cent of all Maryland teachers left their positions last year.

The rate of teacher turnover in Allegany County was 9.7 per cent.

Only two other counties had lower turnovers, — Dorchester with 8.5 per cent and Somerset, 9 per cent.

Washington County had 11.5 per cent and Garrett, 12.1 per cent.

In a 16-page booklet, the association claims to have the answer to the teacher shortage.

Higher salaries, better working conditions, guaranteed retirement benefits and improved teachers colleges are listed by the association as the factors which will attract and hold enough qualified teachers in Maryland public schools.

According to the booklet, which is entitled "What's the Answer to the Teacher Shortage?", 3,800 new teachers are needed annually in Maryland, while all the colleges in the state will graduate only 1,120 qualified teachers this year.

Last year, the association says, nearly half of the new teachers employed in Maryland were drawn from out of state. However, the group stated, the out-of-state sources are drying up because of recent increases in salaries of teachers in nearby states. Since 1948, Maryland has slipped from fourth to 13th among the states in average teacher salaries.

The booklet supports the recent proposal of the State Board of Education for an $800 increase in the state minimum salary scale for teachers as a step toward eliminating the teacher shortage. Beginning salaries of at least $4,000 are necessary to attract enough teachers in Maryland, according to the MSTA booklet.

The teachers association urges that the proposed salary increase be granted in basic state aid in order to halt the decline in the state's share of increasing school costs. A graph in the booklet traces the decline of the proportion of state aid for current expenses of Maryland public schools from 42.1 per cent in 1948 to 34.4 per cent in 1955.

The broader sources of revenue available to the state, in contrast with local dependence on real estate, are cited in support of the argument for increased state aid.

The program outlined in the teachers' association booklet would cost $11,519,000 the first year.

"We can afford this cost," states the MSTA booklet, "because we are relatively wealthy; our taxes are low in comparison with other states; and a small proportion of our income is devoted to public schools."

Maryland is listed as 12th among the states in per capita income. "The citizens of 40 states pay a larger part of their income for state and local taxes than we do in Maryland," the booklet asserts. Closing argument in the booklet is the statement that "Only four states spend a smaller proportion of personal income for public schools."

The proposals contained in "What's the Answer to the Teacher Shortage?" are part of the Five-Year Program for Maryland Public Schools sponsored jointly by the Maryland State Teachers' Association and the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers.

B&O Slogan Prizes Given

A feature of the November no accident program on the B&O Railroad was the safety slogan contest conducted on the Cumberland Division.

Employes in three departments, maintenance of way, transportation and maintenance of equipment took part.

Winners were Joseph H. Koelker Jr., 218 Charles Street, a signalman with the maintenance of way department whose slogan was "The Turkey Will Have His Accident in November — Don't You Have Yours."

Robert L. Keller, Bowling Green, a fireman, used the slogan, "Think Safe—Work Safe—Be Safe — No Accident This November."

Joseph Short, Rowlesburg, a painter, used the slogan, "Safety for All and All for Safety During No Accident Month."

Ten dollar awards to the three safety slogan winners were presented at a safety meeting Tuesday at the B&O YMCA by T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the Cumberland Division.

With less than six per cent of the world's land area, the United States contains about 29 per cent of the world's railway mileage.

Cresaptown Group Election Planned

A nominating committee of the Cresaptown Community Council will present a slate of officers for election at a meeting of the unit today at 7:30 p. m. at Cresaptown School.

Lester Sherman is chairman of the committee, which includes Mrs. Catherine Sindy and Gilbert Keister. John Yoder, chairman of the Community Council, said those elected at tonight's meeting will be installed in January.

Plans for playground improvements will also be discussed at the meeting, Yoder said.

Doub Is Admitted To Maryland Bar

William Offutt Doub, Baltimore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Doub, 748 Washington Street, was admitted to practice as a lawyer when he appeared before the Court of Appeals recently in Annapolis.

Doub is the third generation of his family to carry on a career in law. His grandfather, Albert A. Doub, was judge of Allegany County Circuit Court and his father is a practicing attorney in Cumberland.

Doub, who has accepted a position with the legal department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Baltimore, is a 1950 graduate of Allegany High School.

He received his bachelor of arts degree from Washington and Jefferson College in 1953 and was graduated from the University of Maryland School of Law this past June.

During his summer vacations for the past two years, Doub worked in the B&O legal department as a law clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Doub attended the ceremonies in Annapolis.

Man Is Awaiting Sentence In Theft

The man, George Mirzinko, 51, alias Joe Whitey, waived grand jury action, and is scheduled to be sentenced next week.

He entered a plea of guilty to the 1953 theft of jewelry and clothing from the home of Cloyd Lewis, of Boswell.

The local man carried the loot away after visiting with Lewis and was apprehended on October 31. He was arrested while watching the fall festival in Somerset.

Dinner Planned By Masons

The annual Scottish Rite-De-Molay memorial dinner will be held next Friday evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Dr. Albert C. Cook will be master of ceremonies.

Arrangements for the affair were completed at a meeting of the DeMolay Advisory Board Wednesday at the Temple. Charles Cook and Dr. Warren W. Cook were named as co-chairmen of entertainment for the program which will feature a show by Wolf Adams of Reading, Pa.

Julius E. Schindler and James Hosack were appointed to head the ticket committee for the affair, with James J. Kave as overall general chairman.

Kave said a capacity crowd is expected, with the dinner scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m.

Custodian Of Films

Michael F. Whitworth, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Whitworth, The Dingle, has been named to the projection crew at Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy. The group, sponsored by the YMCA at the academy, is in charge of films shown at the school.

Pumpkin Pudding Squares A La Mode

This spicy pumpkin dessert is a delicious change from pumpkin pie—and an especially good idea because there's no pie crust to make. Try to serve it warm with vanilla ice cream or whipped cream.

Rice cooked in water then in milk makes the pudding base. Canned pumpkin, sugar and pumpkin pie spice are stirred into the hot cooked rice. Then flour and eggs are added along with chopped pecans. This mixture is spread in a shallow pan, topped with a brown sugar and water glaze, then baked until firm. The pudding is cut in squares to serve.

Spicy Pumpkin Squares A La Mode

Ingredients: ⅔ cup uncooked white rice; 1½ teaspoon salt; 1⅓ cups water; 1 cup milk; 1 cup beet or cane sugar; 1, No. 303 can (2 cups) pumpkin; 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice; ½ cup cake four, sifted; ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder; 2 eggs, beaten; ¾ chopped pecans; ½ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed; 1 tablespoon water; ice cream or whipped cream, if desired.

Method: Put the rice, salt and water in a 1-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Stir in the milk. Cover and continue to cook over the low heat 15 to 20 minutes or until the milk is absorbed.

Stir in the beet or can sugar, pumpkin and pumpkin pie spice. Sift together the flour and baking powder. Stir some of the flour into the rice. Add the beaten eggs and mix well. Stir in the rest of the flour and the pecans. Spread in a heavily greased baking dish or pan about 12" x 7" and at least 2" deep.

Mix together the brown sugar and water. Heat to dissolve the sugar. Spread over the top of the rice-pumpkin mixture.

Bake in a pre-heated 350°F. oven 40 minutes or until firm. The pudding should be firm enough to hold shape when cut into squares. A silver knife will not come out clean when inserted into the pudding.

Cut into squares and serve warm with vanilla ice cream or whipped cream. 12-15 servings.

Pineapple Cheese Cake with Crunchy Cereal Crust solves the dilemma of the hostess who wants a dessert for evening refreshments that is filling, satisfying, but not too sweet. The crispy texture of the wheat and barley kernels makes a pleasing combination with the soft, pineapple-flavored filling. Breakfast cereals are excellent for ingredient use in recipes, because they are inexpensive, add flavor and texture, and make important nutritional contributions of protein, the B-complex vitamins, minerals.

PINEAPPLE CEREAL CHEESE CAKE
Wheat and Barley Kernel Crust

2 cups ground wheat and barley kernels
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ cup melted butter or margarine

Combine ground wheat and barley kernels, sugar, cinnamon, and melted butter or margarine. Mix thoroughly. Press ⅔ of mixture into bottom of 9-inch spring form pan. Reserve remaining crumbs for decorating top of cheese cake.

Filling

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 beaten eggs
1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
¼ cup pineapple juice
1 (8 ounces) package cream cheese
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, optional
1 cup well-drained crushed canned pineapple
2 cups small-curd dry cottage cheese
1 cup heavy cream

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine eggs, sugar, salt, and milk in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat. Add gelatin; stir until dissolved. Cool. Add vanilla and pineapple juice to cream cheese; stir until smooth. Blend in lemon rind, pineapple and cottage cheese. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Pour into crumb lined spring form pan. Sprinkle top with reserved crumbs. Chill overnight. Garnish. Yield: 12 servings or fills one 9-inch spring form pan.

Snappy Tongue Variation

Here's a delightful way to please your family and create a spark of individuality in your cooking. Tongue, a rich source of the vitamins and minerals, deserves to be served often. Next time this variety meat graces your menu, serve piping hot raisin or gingersnap sauce with it for a family palate pleaser. Serve the sauce right over the slices of tongue.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Remember to take the pad or pillow out of the dog's or cat's basket at regular intervals and wash it thoroughly with soap or detergent suds; then air it well before replacing.

No cooking is required with this appetizing fresh apple-cranberry relish. Simply put thru the food chopper 1 large red Washington Delicious apple, unpeeled, ½ orange and 2 cups fresh cranberries. Add 1 cup sugar and ½ cup chopped walnuts. Let stand in refrigerator for several hours or overnight.

Prepare Chinese Buffet Dinner In Half The Customary Time

There must be many times in every homemaker's dinner party schedule when she wishes she had something akin to Aladdin's lamp. It would be a relief to say "presto" and have a bountiful meal ready.

Well, if you stop to think a moment, in a sense you can almost do that today. Despite remarks made about the can-opener being the cook's lifesaver, it is due partly to the ever growing variety of unusual canned foods that are grocery stores nowadays, that the handy can-opener continues to reign as the perfect time-saver, too. Armed with suitable canned products, in addition to some fresh foods, you can prepare a company dinner—even a foreign dinner—in half the customary time. And you needn't spend hours in the kitchen getting it assembled.

Chinese buffet dinners in the home, for example, have become increasingly popular since the advent of readily obtainable canned Chinese foods. Several companies offer an array of authentic foods prepared according to true Oriental methods. Such things as exotic water chestnuts, bean sprouts, bamboo shoots, and mixed Chinese vegetables are fully cooked so that much of the tedious pre-preparation of chop suey or chow mein has been eliminated.

You can even go completely informal and assemble your main dish in an electric skillet on the buffet table in full view of your guests. Quick cooking rice takes a twinkling to prepare, while the chow mein noodles simply are poured from a can. Fresh fruits and packaged almond cookies complete the menu.

Chop suey prepared in an electric skillet is an easy way to entertain these days at a Chinese buffet meal. Thanks to the growing array of exotic Chinse foods that now come in cans, creating a main dish having all of the good flavor and texture of a Chinatown dinner takes less than 20 minutes.

But here is the recipe for party chop suey. You can be sure it will be ready to serve in less than 20 minutes, if in addition to the canned Chinese vegetables, you use canned chicken pieces and chicken broth. Chop the onions and celery well ahead of time, cover them tightly and store in the refrigerator, to save last minute fussing.

Party Chop Suey
(12 servings)

½ cup butter
3 cups chopped onion
6 cups diced celery
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3½ cups chicken broth
4 cups cooked chicken, cut in thin pieces
3 cans mixed Chinese vegetables

Thickening and Flavoring:
¼ cup cold water
¼ cup cornstarch
4 teaspoons soy sauce
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons Brown Gravy sauce

Melt butter in electric skillet or standard skillet over low heat. Add onions; cook 3 minutes. Add celery, salt, pepper, and chicken broth. Cover and cook for 10 minutes. Add chicken and Chinese vegetables. Mix thoroughly and heat to boiling. Combine thickening and flavoring ingredients; add to meat mixture. Stir lightly and cook 2 minutes longer. Serve hot over cooked rice for Chop Suey, or over crisp noodles for Chow Mein. Flavor individual servings with soy sauce.

Canned Meats For Modern Diet

Canned meats . . . well, the variety is as wide as your pantry shelf. Canned meats provide complete high quality protein—a prime essential for sturdy bones, healthy nerves and the wonderful all-over feeling of fitness.

Corned Beef Hash Pie

1 can (16 ounces) corned beef hash
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup catchup
1 package (12 ounces) frozen lima beans, cooked
¼ pound American cheese, grated
3 tablespoons milk
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard

Combine hash, egg and catchup; mix thoroughly. Line bottom and sides of greased 9-inch pie plate with this mixture. Spread lima beans on top of hash mixture. Place cheese, milk and mustard in saucepan. Heat until blended. Pour cheese mixture over top of pie. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Meat Important In Reducing Diet

Lean meat is important in the reducing diet. Meat leaves you with a feeling of satisfaction and allays the hunger pangs for a longer period than other foods. It also provides important minrals — iron to protect you from nutritional anemia, and phosphorus, which is essential for bones and certain physiological functions.

This rice-mollasses pudding is a nutritious dessert. Beat 3 eggs unitl light and fluffy. Add ½ cup beet or can sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup melted butter or margarine, 1 cup molasses or dark corn syrup, 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans and 2½ cups cooked white rice. Beat until well blended. Pour into a greased baking dish. Bake at 350°F. for 1 hour or until the filling is set. Stir occasionally.

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — Admittedly shell-shocked by the tremendous landside victory of President Eisenhower, Democratic strategists emerged the morning after already cocking an eye at their chances in 1960.

Despite the tremendous beating absorbed by Adlai Stevenson, the Democrats are sounding an optimistic note. They contend that the Republicans—without Eisenhower—will be in trouble in the next White House contest four years from now. As evidence, they cite continued Democratic control of Congress as well as Democratic victories in gubernatorial races.

Here is how they view the 1960 outlook:

Stevenson is probably through as a presidential possibility because of the one-sided licking he took. However, he will be a valuable party asset in the role of a lucid, forceful Democratic spokesman.

Estes Kefauver, if he decides to make another try, will have an uphill fight to win the presidential nomination at his party's 1960 convention. However, he may continue a front-runner in the presidential primary scramble.

Senators John Kennedy of Massachusetts, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Albert Gore of Tennessee may emerge as formidable bidders for the Democratic nomination four years hence. All, however, have their drawbacks.

The Democratic candidate of 1960 may well come from the ranks of governors the party has installed in state houses from Maine to Arizona. A state governor could effectively enlist grass roots support among Democrats. And a dark horse selection at the party convention—at the moment—is a good long shot bet.

Ike's Influence

White House aides were extremely pleased at the way President Eisenhower ran well ahead of his party in state after state. They say this will give him power to control GOP senators and House members in the coming four years.

The White House reasoning is that Ike's landslide performance will greatly offset the fact that a constitutional amendment bars another "coat-tails" campaign in 1960.

Even though the President's popularity failed to carry a number of GOP gubernatorial and congressional hopefuls to victory, in a great many other races Ike provided Republicans with winning margins.

Accordingly, White House advisors feel that the President will be able to keep any maverick Republicans in line by threatening to withhold his personal blessing on the next election go-rounds in 1958 and 1960.

Langer's Loyalty

One interesting aspect of the recent campaigns that went almost unnoticed was the party loyalty of Senator William Langer of North Dakota.

Langer, a Republican, has frequently been a thorn in the side of the GOP. A member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he often has disagreed vehemently with the Eisenhower administration's foreign policies. As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee in the 83rd Congress, it was Langer who delayed the confirmation of Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.

Back in 1952, in fact, the North Dakota Republican did little if anything to support the GOP ticket.

This year, there was speculation that Langer would switch to the Democratic party, since the North Dakota Nonpartisan League, one of his principal backers, deserted the Republicans.

Langer, however, remained loyal to the GOP. He did no stumping, but he didn't aid the Democrats either. This autumn, during a Senate Post Office Committee investigation of alleged job-selling by Republicans, Langer remained in Washington to guard his party's interests.

Dress Up Meats With Stuffing

With the advent of the holiday season, homemakers throughout the country make more of an effort to add a little extra something to dress up the family meals.

Various stuffings add a note of distinction, without much effort to a meat cut . . . either beef, veal, pork or lamb. Actually, seasonal holidays call for special dress so why not start now to make plans to dress up your meals.

For an economical lamb dinner around the holiday season, plan on lamb shanks stuffed with a celery-rice stuffing. See if the family doesn't exclaim over this innovation.

Lamb Shanks—Celery-Rice Stuffing

6 lamb shanks
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water or enough to cover
¾ cup rice
½ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning

Brown the lamb shanks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add salt, pepper and water. Cover and simmer until tender, about 2 hours. Remove meat from broth. When shanks are cool enough to handle, remove bones. Cook rice in lamb broth. Drain rice, saving broth. Combine cooked rice, celery and poultry seasoning. Stuff shanks with celery-rice mixture. Place in baking dish. Pour remaining lamb broth over stuffed shanks. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (350° F.) until heated through. Yield: 6 servings.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS)—The old political pledge of a "Chicken in Every Pot" seems to have been brought up to date. The Family Economics Bureau has come up with the startling statistic that U. S. turkey farms and markets now possess one and three-quarter gobblers for every family in the U. S.

Turkeys apparently are getting out of hand. They threaten to take us over. We have 76,000,000 of them today as opposed to 44,000,000 in 1950. Back in 1930 only 17,000,000 were around, and if memory serves one recalls what part most of us got that particular year.

Why more now? Seems that turkey people have developed new varieties which can be marketed much younger, hatched birds have a greater life expectancy, package has become more attractive, and birds have become an all-year-round delicacy instead of just at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Benjamin Franklin argued loud and long to put the turkey instead of the eagle on the Great Seal of the young United States government. He preferred the turkey's fastidious eating habits to that of the eagle, first cousin of a vulture.

How was a native American bird named after a foreign country? Simple. Colonists, who gave a great many wrong names to things they found here, confused the bird with the guinea-fowl, in those days a delicacy imported into Europe by way of Turkey.

The Supreme Court refused to review Dr. Sam Sheppard's appeal. The verdict of his Cleveland jury, reached after five tense days just before Christmas two years ago, now has stood up in all the appeal courts. Dr. Sam's life sentence for bashing in the head of his pretty wife still stands. In time he will be eligible for parole.

Thus ends what may be the final chapter, for some time at least, in a matter that aroused more feeling one way or the other than almost any criminal trial of the past decade or two. Many continue to believe that there was, indeed, a "bushy-haired stranger" who killed Marilyn Sheppard and twice belted out the husband who in time was convicted of her murder. Many must believe, too, that law and order found the right man and put him away.

If Dr. Sam was as guiltless as he, his family and his supporters insist, one who sat in the same courtroom with the accused for two months still finds it hard to comprehend why he never once cried out against the testimony as it piled into the record against him. Dr. Sam's manner throughout his long ordeal was not "how dare you!" but "all right, prove it."

The Supreme court now says, in effect, "Okay, they did."

Every time we pass the U. N. buildings on Manhattan's East Side we are reminded of how many centuries mankind has yearned for an answer to the malignant curse of military conflict.

Tennyson was not the first to pray for "the parliament of Man, the federation of the world." The prophet Micah, more than 2,500 years ago, looked forward to the time when "nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Immanuel Kant wrote, in 1795, "Since reason condemns war and makes peace an absolute duty; and since peace cannot be effected or guaranteed without a compact among nations, they must form an alliance of a peculiar sort."

After seeing India side with the Communist bloc when asked to condemn the brutal Red army's slaughter of flickering Hungarian freedom, one must inform Kant by ouija board that the nations did indeed form an illiance of a peculiar sort.

Sandwich In Season

It's a pleasure to have leftover meats appear in a new guise. Arrange a lettuce leaf on a slice of toasted bread. Top lettuce with thinly sliced leftover pork or ham and top meat with 2 tablespoons of canned cranberry sauce. Add 1 teaspoon mayonnaise atop the cranberry sauce. Serve sandwich with a bowl of steaming hot soup.

The phrase "sardonic laughter" is derived from the name of the island of Sardinia in the Mediterranean. An herb growing there was once believed to make anyone who ate it laugh himself to death.

Whet Holiday Appetites With A Boneless Stuffed Pork Shoulder

Elegance, yet a little touch of individuality . . . that describes this delicious stuffed pork shoulder. An excellent idea for a novel treat at Thanksgiving, this pork cut is roasted in a moderate oven (350°F.) and is filled with moist, taste-pleasing celery stuffing.

Thanksgiving is a holiday with much meaning for Americans. It's a time of looking back, a time to be with close friends and the family.

To celebrate this occasion, choose a unique meat entree for a change. A boneless pork shoulder serves the purpose well.

Fall and winter are excellent times for tempting pork dinners; pork supplies are plentiful now and the food budget does not have to expand to accommodate this meat cut.

The boneless pork shoulder roast is an elegant meat entree, especially when garnished with luscious glazed apples and stuffed with a well-seasoned celery stuffing.

Have your meat retailer bone out a 3 to 5 pound pork shoulder, then sew it around the edges leaving one side open for stuffing.

In this case we've used a celery stuffing, but an apple-raisin, corn bread or apple-prune blend well with pork, too.

After the roast has been stuffed, sew or skewer the open side to hold the stuffing.

Place the pork shoulder fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. As the roast cooks the fat will melt and run down over the meat. Roast in a moderate oven (350° F.) allowing 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

Celery Stuffing

1 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2½ cups bread crumbs
⅛ teaspoon marjoram
⅛ teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Water to moisten

Cook celery, onion and parsley in butter or margarine for a few minutes. Add other ingredients and enough liquid to make a slightly moist stuffing.

Plums In Spanish Sherry For Dessert

A quick and delicious dessert with a refreshing tang is made by draining a No. 2½ can of purple plums, adding to them half a cup of Spanish sherry—either a nutty amontillado or sweeter oloroso—then chilling for an hour in the refrigerator. Before serving, grate orange rind over the sherried plums and dust with ginger or top with whipped cream.

Two Dairy Herd Testing Plans Offered Here

Both Cheaper Than Standard

Two new record-keeping plans in the National Cooperative Dairy Herd Improvement Program are being offered to Allegany County dairymen for the first time, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

J. R. Schabinger, extension dairyman at the University of Maryland, explained the plans to county dairymen and testers here Monday and Tuesday

The less costly plan is the weigh-a-day-a-month plan. The dairyman enrolls in the plan and obtains necessary forms and instructions from the county agent. The dairyman weighs each cow's milk morning and evening on the 15th of the month. He records the weights on the record forms supplied him, which he mails to a central office where the records are calculated.

Under this plan, which costs about five cents per cow per month, the owner weighs the milk and feed, enters figures and mails forms. No samples are taken and the central office calculates unofficial records. The owner uses the records to improve his herd.

The second plan is the owner-sampler plan, which costs about 25 cents per cow per month. The owner here also weighs milk and feed and enters figures but the supervisor picks up forms. The owner also takes milk samples. The supervisor or central laboratory tests milk for butterfat. The supervisor or central office also calculates unofficial records which the owner uses to improve his herd.

Under the owner-sampler plan the dairy herd improvement association supervisor leaves sample bottles and record sheets at the farm one day each month. On the evening of that day and the next morning, the owner weighs the milk yield of each cow and records the weight on his record sheet. He takes a sample of each cow's milk for butterfat testing. He may also record the amount of grain fed each cow and the amount of roughage fed to the herd.

Both of these plans are less expensive and less official than the standard DHIA plan participated in by some 25 dairymen in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

In the standard plan, costing about 40 cents per cow per month, the supervisor weighs milk and feed, enters figures, handles forms, takes milk samples, tests milk for butterfat, calculates official records, eartags animals, compiles a breeding record. The production records are used in proved-sire program and the supervisor assists owners to use records to improve his herd.

Colnot Named To B&O Post

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad announced today the appointment of A. W. Colnot, formerly superintendent of its Pittsburgh division, to assistant general manager of the Central Region, with headquarters at Pittsburgh.

Colnot succeeds T. E. Johnson, recently appointed assistant general superintendent of transportation here.

Succeeding Colnot at Pittsburgh is C. E. Bertrand, formerly superintendent of the Monongah division with headquarters at Grafton. His place will be filled by J. R. Frease, formerly assistant superintendent of the Buffalo division, with headquarters at Punxsutawney, Pa. V. H. Freygang will take Frease's former position.

Cities Asked To Help PSC

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Chairman Stanford Hoff of the Public Service Commission asked members of the Maryland Municipal League today for continued cooperation in the regulation of the state's utilities.

The PSC cannot provide constant supervision of all the utilities, Hoff said, but with the cooperation of municipal officials it can guarantee Marylanders will get "reasonably good service at reasonably cheap rates."

Hoff traced the history of utilities from their beginning as competitive businesses. He said it was soon discovered that utilities are natural monopolies and that the public could be served best through government regulation, rather than open competition.

The municipal officials, assembled here for a 3-day convention, also heard Sherley Ewing, director of the Maryland Civil Defense agency, and Frank K. Haszard, director of th state agency for surplus property.

14 Persons Take Civil Service Tests

Tests for five city positions were given here last night by the Civil Service Commission.

Taking the tests were one applicant for the police test, six for fire, one for draftsman, three for warehouse clerk and three for junior inspector.

Compensation

Reckord said he was sent to the council by the public works officials to determine what legislative sentiment would be on a proposal to build a new National Guard armory on a 26-acre tract which is part of the Coppin State Teachers College in Baltimore.

He recalled that two years ago the Legislature approved an appropriation for construction of the armory but deleted from the governor's budget proposals a $100,000 item for purchase of property on which the Armory was to have been built. The Board of Public Works, he indicated, wanted some assurance that the Legislators would not object again to the construction of an armory.

Want Dual Use

Sen. John Grason Turnbull (D-Baltimore) reminded Reckord that one reason for opposition to the item was the belief that the armory should be built on the Coppin property, where it could be used for educational purposes when not in use by the National Guard.

To clarify the council's position on the armory proposal, Turnbull proposed a resolution stating flatly that the legislators favor such a plan.

Turnbull, Robinson and Goldstein then berated the Board of Public Works—composed of Miles, Gov. McKeldin and Comptroller J. Millard Tawes—for failing to grasp the reason for previous opposition to the plan. The reason, they emphasized, was the board's previous move to put the armory on a site which would have cost $100,000 instead of on the Coppin grounds, as had been advocated.

Earlier in the day, the council heard C. Morton Goldstein, the state's chief movie censor, suggest that the Maryland censorship law is too "narrow in scope."

Goldstein mentioned a film in which the birth of a child is shown. He said the law restricts the powers of the censors to such a degree that they are "powerless to deal with this kind of film."

Asks Careful Study

Any change in the present law, he added, should be made only after careful study to make certain the revised version does not conflict with recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions on movie censorship.

Goldstein said the Maryland attorney general had the matter under study.

Clayton Dietrich, assistant attorney general, told the council that state legal officers are withholding recommendations until the Maryland Court of Appeals hears a case involving a film banned by the censors.

2-60 Day Range

Also heard by the legislators was a report from a committee drafting proposed changes in laws dealing with court procedure.

Chief Judge John B. Gray of the Seventh Judicial Circuit, spokesman for the committee, pointed out that Maryland has 180 statutes dealing with the time allowed for filing a case with the Court of Appeals. The time allowed ranges from two days to 60 days, depending upon which statute you read, he said.

Gray said the committee plans to recommend one statute with a 30-day limit, as now observed by the court itself.

The council was told similar examples of conflicting statutes on court procedure clutter the state code and are marked for clarification in a series of bills to be introduced in the next legislative session.

E. Clinton Bamberger Jr., Baltimore attorney, said he expects to have the bills ready for introduction early in the session.

West Virginia Phone Workers Get Pay Boost

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. has signed a new one-year contract covering 4,500 telephone workers in West Virginia.

The agreement, which replaced one ended Tuesday, provides basic wage increases from $2 to $5.50 per week, and higher starting salaries in all the major cities and town which the C&P serves.

Clerical personnel and traffic operators will receive $2 to $3.50 more, and plant craftsmen and commercial men from $3 to $5.50 more per week. Under the old contract minimum salaries of all four job classifications ranged from $37.50 to $47.50 per week.

Eleven communities were reclassified for higher wage scales—St. Albans, Belle, New Martinsville, Wellsburg, Follansbee, Point Pleasant, Sistersville, Moundsville, Kenova, Barboursville and Weirton.

C&P serves most of West Virginia's major population centers except for Bluefield, Welch and Princeton.

Fall Victim Still Critical

Isaac Heiskell Smith, 27, of Cabins, W. Va., remains on the critical list at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted yesterday with injuries sustained in a tree-cutting accident in Petersburg, W. Va.

Smith, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith, also of Cabins, suffered a fractured skull. It was reported that the victim was working with W. A. Hardy of Rig, cutting down a tree in front of the Presbyterian Church of Petersburg.

Smith, according to a report, was in the top of the tree, cutting out limbs when one of them fell on power lines.

The man, whose safety belt apparently was not fastened properly, tried to kick the limb off the wires and fell.

City Firemen Fight Four Grass Fires

South End at 10:09 a. m. went to 526 Louisiana Avenue to fight a grass fire for nearly half an hour. Again at 3:39 p. m. they put out a fire at the end of Wempe Drive.

East Side firemen got their turn at 4:18 p. m. when they were summoned to 440 Walnut Street, and the same company went to Shawnee Avenue and Holland Street about 5:18 p. m. when Box 314 was pulled.

Red Cross Group To Attend Session

A group of local people will represent the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross today in Baltimore at an all-day session of representatives from all chapters in Maryland. The meeting will be held at Baltimore Chapter Red Cross headquarters.

Thomas B. Finan, local attorney and chairman of the Red Cross disaster committee, will participate in a panel discussion on the subject, "Red Cross Disaster Training and Preparation."

Workshops will be held during the afternoon on first aid and water safety, nursing service, Service groups, blood program, home service, public information, and Junior Red Cross.

Among those attending from Cumberland besides Mr. Finan will be Mrs. George W. Legge, executive secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, canteen service committee; Mrs. Holmes Cessna, staff aide and motor corps representative, and Mrs. Mary Leuba, Gray Ladies representative.

Manslaughter Trial Scheduled Today

The final criminal trial of the current term of Allegany County Circuit Court is scheduled for 9:15 a. m. today when Francis H. Donahue, 18-year-old Pennsylvanian who lives on Beans Cove Road, goes on trial on a manslaughter charge.

Donahue was indicted after his car struck and killed Randall Langer Martin, a five-year-old boy, July 22 along the Maryland portion of Beans Cove Road, also known as Pleasant Valley Road.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside at the jury trial, which has been delayed while Donahue recovered from an attack of blood poisoning. Fourteen witnesses have been summoned.

745 Enrolled In Legion Post For Next Year

Fort Cumberland Post 12, American Legion, according to Harold Davis, membership chairman, now has 745 members enrolled for 1957. At this same time last year, only 175 had enrolled. A record year is anticipated.

At this week's meeting of the post, Dr. William R. Allen, chairman of child welfare, said a donation had been made to the Police Boys Club.

William Ranch, chairman of the Graves Registration committee, reported 32 military funerals had been conducted since July 1, 1956.

Members were informed by Perry Edmondson, chairman of the property committee, that plans are under way to repaint and renovate the cocktail lounge for the coming holiday season.

The resignation of Rabbi Daniel Lowy as post chaplain was accepted with regret. He stated he is unable to attend meetings regularly and believed a clergyman should be selected who could attend the post sessions.

Commander Charles Griffith announced that a commander-adjutant meeting will be held in Baltimore Sunday and that he and Adjutant Russell Paupe plan to attend. Commander Griffith also thanked those who participated in the Veterans Day parade and expressed the post's gratitude to the thousands of citizens who braved the cold and wind to see the parade

Commander Griffith also urged the membership to promote interest in a spaghetti supper to be served at the post home December 13 from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. The event is open to the public, he noted.

Soviet Coach Calls U.S. Olympic Track Team Greatest

Korobkov Is Impressed By Classy Squad

Praises Friendly Athletes; Technique Perfect, He Says

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MELBOURNE, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Soviet Union's top athletic coach said today the U.S. Olympic track and field team is the "greatest ever assembled by any country any time and is much stronger than the 1952 team which dominated the Helsinki games."

Gabriel Korobkov watched the American Olympians work out in the rain. It was the first time he got a good long look at the runners, jumpers and throwers who are expected to win between 12 and 15 of the men's 24 track and field events.

"The Americans have a fine body-equipment and their technique—Ah, it is perfect," Korobkov said.

"They are gentlemen also. I talk with one of them and in two minutes he makes me feel like we are friends for all our lives. They are the best athletes entered in the Olympics," he added.

5,000 Athletes Arrive

Athletes from more than 60 nations practiced the full scale of Olympic sports despite the rain.

The full cast for the games was almost completed late tonight when an American airline flew in two DC-7 loads of Russians from Rangoon and Americans from Honolulu. Except for a few stragglers, nearly all the 5,000 athletes are in Australia.

One of the last to arrive was Russia's hat-loving discus thrower Nina Ponomarva. She arrived hatless, but wearing small United States Olympic team buttons on her coat.

"Please say nothing about those hats," she said.

Ferris Optimistic

Dan Ferris, secretary of the American Athletic Union, spent part of the day working out a form sheet which showed Americans winning 15 men's gold medals.

Ferris said the Americans will win practically everything on the track except distance events, marathon and walks. In field events the Americans are right at the top but their chances are weakest in the hop, step and jump.

Three months ago in Moscow during a sports festival, Korobkov said the Americans will win between 12 and 14 men's gold medals.

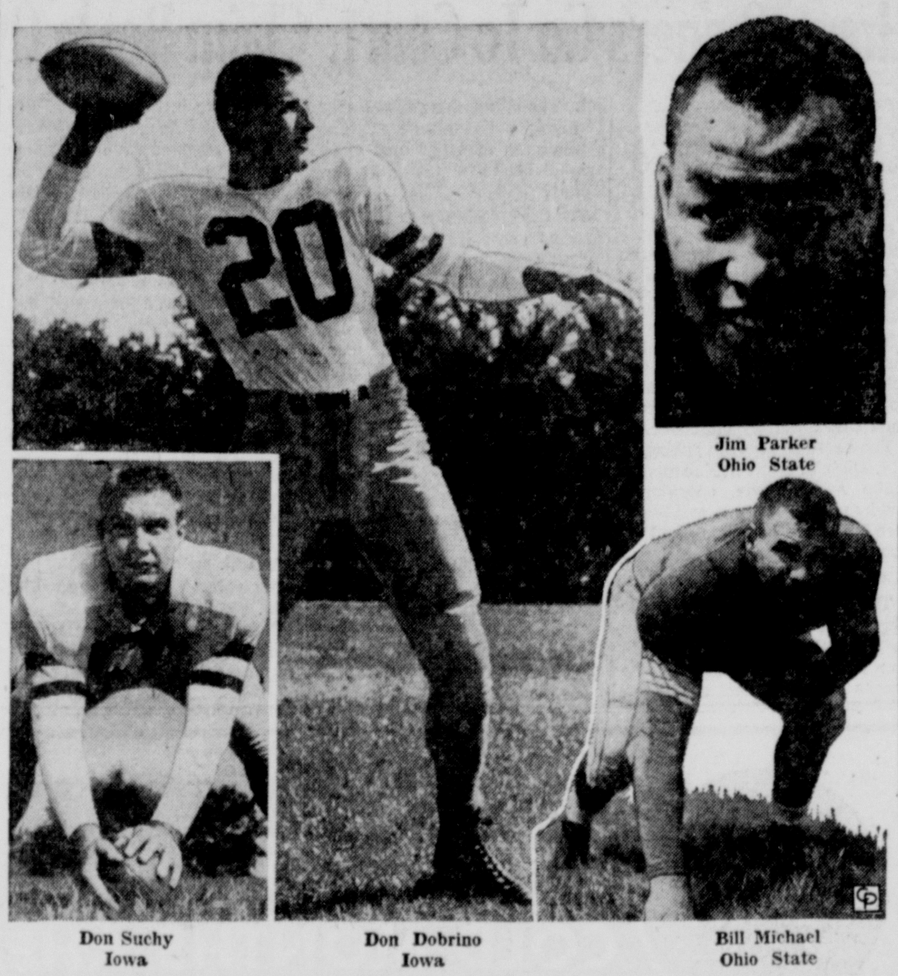
ROSE BOWL BID FOR HAWKS IF THEY GET BY BUCKS



Jim Parker, Ohio State

Don Suchy, Iowa

Don Dobrino, Iowa

Bill Michael, Ohio State

WITH THE ROSE BOWL bid hanging in the balance, the Iowa Hawkeyes play host to the Buckeyes of Ohio State Saturday, November 17, at Iowa City, in a game which tops the collegiate calendar. This is the 19th game in the series, with Ohio winning 10. Two were tied. (International)

Clemson, Bowl-Hopeful, May Hit Snag In Miami

Game Set Tonight; Iowa Must Hurdle Bucks On Saturday

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
The Associated Press

A football team whose hopes for a post-season bowl game were dashed by a NCAA decision will attempt to chill the prospects of another bowl-hopeful tonight when the Miami Hurricanes tangle with Clemson's unbeaten Tigers.

The same thing is due to happen in a slightly lesser degree Saturday when Texas A. and M. encounters Rice.

Miami and Texas Aggies, both with excellent prospects of qualifying for a bowl bid this season, were told they couldn't get one Tuesday when the NCAA council declined to remove them from probation.

Clemson's chances of getting the Orange Bowl bid probably wouldn't be hurt much by a loss to Miami in a non-conference game. But the Atlantic Coast Conference, which the Tigers are leading, reserves the right to name its most representative team—not necessarily its champion—for the bowl game. Thrice-beaten Duke might earn the nod with an impressive finish against Wake Forest and North Carolina if Clemson should skid.

Clemson On Spot

And anything less than a strong showing against Miami would damage the Tigers as an Orange Bowl attraction, especially since the Big Seven will be sending its runner-up team, probably Colorado, to the bowl.

Colorado, its conference season finished, plays Utah tomorrow while Oklahoma's Sooners, ineligible for a return bowl engagement at Miami, go out to clinch second place for the Buffs by beating Missouri.

Oklahoma has some extra incentive to win this one since the Sooners were bumped out of the No. 1 spot in the national rankings by Tennessee in this week's Associated Press poll.

The Texas Aggies, unbeaten Southwest Conference leaders, likely will quench whatever hopes Rice has of finishing in second-place tie and possibly getting the nod from the Cotton Bowl. Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, tied for second, play Texas and Arkansas, respectively while fourth place Baylor visits Nebraska.

OSU Could Hurt Iowa

One Rose Bowl spot also is up for grabs Saturday in two Big 10 games. Iowa, tied for second in the standings but leading among the bowl eligibles, takes on conference-leading Ohio State and Minnesota, second in the bowl race, encounters Michigan State.

Tennessee's Volunteers, atop the national rankings by two points and with both the Sugar and Cotton bowls reportedly seeking their services, run into the nation's best defense—statistically, at least — when they face Mississippi. Still hopeful Georgia Tech has an easy one in prospect against Alabama.

Two major conference titles should be settled when Yale and Princeton, tied for the Ivy League lead, come together at New Haven, Conn., and Texas Western, the Border Conference leader, meets runner-up West Texas State.

The population of the world increases at approximately one per cent a year.

Furman To Fly To Morgantown

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 15 (AP)—Furman put most of its time on defense here today in a light scrimmage before leaving for Saturday's game with West Virginia.

The Hurricanes' 33-player squad leaves by plane early tomorrow. A light workout is planned at Morgantown in the afternoon.

Middle Tennessee Accepts Bowl Bid

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., Nov. 15 (AP)Middle Tennessee State College's football team tonight voted to accept a bid to meet Sam Houston State, champions of the Lone Star Conference, in the annual Refrigerator Bowl Dec. 1 at Evansville, Ind.

MTSC has cinched a tie for the Ohio Valley Conference championship but can claim the laurels by defeating Tennessee Polytechnic Institute on Thanksgiving.

MTSC has lost only to Vanderbilt and Morris Harvey in eight games this season.

Hill Is Top Grid Scorer

Utah State Player Makes 98 Points

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Jack Hill, major college football scoring leader from Utah State, may lose his place at the top of the heap this week as his team is idle.

Hill, also the nation's leader in pass interceptions, is getting his first free Saturday since Sept. 8.

Ron Lind of Drake, punt return leader, and VMI's Sam Woolwine, top individual kickoff returner, also may lose out. Drake has completed its schedule while VMI has an open date.

Statistics of the NCAA Service Bureau show that Hill, with 98 points, is up 8 from a week ago, but his margin has shrunk to its lowest level in four weeks.

Wyoming's Jim Crawford picked up 14 points last week and is only 8 behind. Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma has scored 84 points, Army's Bob Kyasky, 73; and Tommy McDonald of Oklahoma, 72. All three got 14 points last week. Oklahoma has three games to play, Kyasky has two, and Hill and Crawford, one each.

Hill has intercepted seven passes, while Penn State's Milt Plum and Jim Ridlon of Syracuse have each swiped six.

Billy Loes Cleared Of Paternity Charge By All-Male Jury

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 15 (AP)—An all-male jury cleared Baltimore Orioles pitcher Billy Loes tonight of a charge that he fathered a woman convict's daughter.

Suzanne Fulinello, 24, now in Clinton Reformatory for an attempted holdup, charged that Loes fathered the child in a Miami hotel while the former Brooklyn Dodgers star was in Florida for spring training with Brooklyn in 1952.

Dodgers Delayed By Plane Trouble

TOKYO, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers started leaving Japan today amid delays over airplane trouble.

Twenty-four players, Brooklyn officials and wives, were scheduled to leave later aboard two Japan Air Lines flights for San Francisco—at 9:30 a.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Club officials said they were informed an hour before departure time from the hotel that one engine of the DC6B plane taking them to San Francisco had sprung an oil leak and was being replaced.

Warriors Top Royals, 92-83

Johnston, Arizin Score 46 Points

HERSHEY, Pa., Nov. 15 (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors staged a fourth period rally to defeat the Rochester Royals 92-83 in a National Basketball Association game tonight.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the Warriors stage their sizzling comeback. The Philadelphians started the fourth period on the short end of a 67-61 score but rolled up 31 points to defeat Rochester.

Allegany Has 12-13-3 Mark In Thanksgiving Contests

Series With Fort Hill Even At 9-9-2; Campers Last Beat Sentinels In 1945

Allegany High School's Campers will be engaging in their 29th consecutive Thanksgiving Day game with a city opponent when they meet Fort Hill for the 21st straight season at the local stadium next Thursday at 1:30 p. m.

In the 28 contests played to date, the Campers are playing slightly below the .500 mark with 12 wins, 13 losses and three ties.

Holiday Series Even

Twenty times Allegany has faced Fort Hill in the Turkey Day classic and the schools have split even, each winning nine and losing nine while two contests ended in deadlocks.

The Campers and Sentinels played on three other occasions but they were not staged on Thanksgiving With these games included Fort Hill holds the edge in the overall series, 11 to 9, with three ties.

Coach William P. Hahn of Fort Hill will be sending a team against Allegany for the 12th time in a holiday tilt. His only loss came in his first year at Fort Hill when Herman Ball's eleven beat him in 1942 by the score of 17-6. Since then his teams have won eight, lost none and played two tie games. During the three years Hahn was in the Navy, Mel Henry coached at Fort Hill. Allegany's last victory over the Sentinels was in the Turkey Day tilt of 1945.

Payne Gets First Shot

Chester G. Payne, who took over the reins at Allegany at the start of the present season, will attempt to do something his predecessors were unable to do in the past ten years—beat Fort Hill in the big one.

Lose Nine In Row

Berkeley Springs (6-3-0) will be striving to shake a nine game losing streak in its series with the Hampshire Countians who won every game since the teams battled to a scoreless tie in 1946. Romney also will be out to stop a losing streak of four games in the past month.

The Indians own a 1-2 record in the P.V.C., in which they are represented for the first time. Romney's league mark is one win and four defeats.

Hubs Can Take Lead

A victory for Coach Mel Henry's eleven would break the tie with Fort Hill for first place in the C.V.A.L., and then the final outcome of the championship race would be determined Thanksgiving Day when the Sentinels tangle with Allegany High. Fort Hill and Hagerstown will share the title if they win these games. They are now tied at 3-1.

Hagerstown has an overall record of six victories and two losses while Frederick is 0-7-1 for the campaign and 0-4-0 in the C.V.A.L.

Keyser Eyes Game Today

Keyser High School's undefeated team will be watching the outcome of the Ripley-Ravenswood game today as the Golden Tornado will make the Class A state playoff if Ripley is defeated.

Ripley leads the Class A race with 12 points, Mullens is second with 11.9 and Keyser third with 11.66.

Season Ends Thursday

The final games of the season in the area are billed for next Thursday when Allegany plays Fort Hill, Beall opposes LaSalle and Martinsburg invades Winchester to play Handley.

Fort Worth Gets ABC Tournament

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 15 (AP)—The American Bowling Congress tournament will be held here March 9 through April 28, coming to the Southwest for the first time in its 54-year history.

Will Rogers Coliseum will be the site of the 51-day event which will draw 5,700 5-man teams from 38 states and several foreign countries. Some 30,000 bowlers will compete for $350,000 in prize money.

The ABC tournament is divided into three events—team, doubles and singles. Each event consists of three games.

Sam Houston To Play In Refrigerator Bowl

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 15 (AP)—Refrigerator Bowl officials said today unbeaten Sam Houston State, champions of the Lone Star Conference, has accepted a bid to play in the Dec. 1 post season football game.

The Huntsville, Tex., school clinched its league crown by sweeping its first eight games and winds up the regular season Saturday against Stephen Austin College.

Dick Wilson, chairman of the bowl's selection committee, said first choice for Sam Houston's opponent is St. Joseph's of Rensselaer, Ind. Wilson listed Middle Tennessee as another prospect.

Yanks Get Cicotte

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Right-hander Al Cicotte, who compiled a 15-12 record with Richmond's fifth place team in the International League, will go south with the New York Yankees next spring.

Cicotte had a 3.03 earned run average in 205 innings. The tall 26-year-old fast baller will have a chance in spring training to impress Yankee Manager Casey Stengel.

IMPROVED—Tennis star Art Larsen, unconscious since a motor scooter accident Saturday, continued to show improvement yesterday at Castro Valley, Calif. Larsen still is listed in serious condition following an operation for a brain hemorrhage.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(INS)—Sugar Ray Robinson has scored dozens of knockouts in his 16 years of ring warfare and exactly 50 of them were scored in the first, second or third rounds.

Those swift kayos are an amazing tribute to his ability as a puncher and his knowledge of how to set up an opponent for a quick finish.

With a record like that you might suppose he has caused more damage than any fighter in the last half century. And yet the reverse is true.

Terrific punchers like Robinson, Joe Louis and Jack Dempsey as a rule cause less physical damage to an opponent than fellows like Gene Tunney who cut an opponent to ribbons.

Skillful boxers like Tunney may not have enough punch to take out an opponent with a wallop or two but they hit hard enough to cut and slash the other fellow to ribbons and in the process may cause untold physical damage.

Sugar Ray has dropped many an opponent for the 10-count with a punch or two and the victim has gotten up and walked out with no more physical damage than a sore jaw.

It has been suspected that the middleweight champion has carried an opponent for the sake of getting another big gate. The muggs in the fight racket always have believed that he carried Kid Gavilan in their first fight, which Robinson always denies.

Be that as it may, anybody who has gone 10 rounds with Robinson certainly has taken far more punishment than anybody he finished in a hurry.

These thoughts struck us forcibly the other night when Sugar Ray went 10 rounds with a guinea pig named Bob Provizzi in New Haven. Robinson is now 36 and he has fought only a few rounds in two years.

So he wanted to know how his legs would stand up over 10 rounds. Certainly it was not for the $425 he got for his end of the purse.

He probably convinced himself that his legs will stand up for 15 rounds if he has to go that many with rugged Gene Fullmer in their title fight Dec. 12.

Robinson surely would not endanger his end of $250,000 or more (from the gate plus television) for $425 except (1) he was sure he couldn't get hurt and (2) he needed the work-out.

But until he left that New Haven ring untired and unmarked he had some of the International Boxing Club officials on the verge of a hemmorrhage. They were scared to death that he might suffer a cut that would cause postponement of the title fight.

However, Robinson knew what he was doing as he usually does.

Giants' Rookie Called By Army

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — The New York Giants received word today that rookie outfielder Willie Kirkland has received his induction notice and is scheduled to enter the Army Dec. 7. He lives in Detroit.

Kirkland, who hit .293, had 37 homers and drove in 112 runs for Minneapolis last season, is the fourth Giant to be called into the service. The others are pitcher Paul Giel, outfielder Jackie Brandt and first baseman Bill White.

Rising Son

SELECTED the most valuable player in the Dodgers' three-game series in Osaka, Japan, Don Demeter, a rookie, gets plenty of loot including a coat, parasol and other gifts. Demeter has hit seven home runs thus far. (International)

Middleweight Bout Set December 12

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and top challenger Gene Fullmer signed contracts today for a 15-round title bout Dec. 12 at Madison Square Garden.

Robinson will receive a 45½ per cent share of the purse and 60 per cent of the TV-radio package of $100,000.

The West Jordan, Utah, challenger will be given a token payment of 12½ per cent of the gross gate, probably the smallest ever received by a contestant in a modern major championship.

As the fighters posed for pictures, Robinson put an arm about Gene's neck and talked about their families. The atmosphere was so friendly that one handler remarked: "Gee, they act just like Demon and Piteous."

Sugar Ray, asked if he knew that at 35 he would be spotting Fullmer 11 years, replied:

"Certainly. So what? He has youth. I have wisdom and experience. I never heard of any boxer winning a bout with a birth certificate."

National Football League Selections

I. N. S. has called 25 of 41 pro football predictions correctly for an average of .609. Following are selections for this Sunday:

By FRED DE LUCA

Chicago Cards 20, Pittsburgh 10 ... Mchan bounces back for Cards.

Chicago Bears 35, Los Angeles 20 ... improving Rams puny next to Bears.

Orioles Sign Pair

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP) — Harry Simms of Mineral, Va. and James Ballard of Selma, Ala., were signed today to contracts in the baseball minor league chain of the Baltimore Orioles.

Simms, an 18-year-old pitcher, was assigned to Thomson, Ga., and Ballard, also a pitcher, to Paris, Texas.

Horse Owners Go To Court, Claim Boyle Owes $166,836

Short Changing Charged Against West Va. Tracks

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—Owners of winning horses went to court today claiming they were short changed by two West Virginia tracks.

The claims were part of a protest by horsemen which led to cancellation of racing at Charles Town. The track was supposed to open last Saturday until Dec. 15.

The horse owners are asking the U.S. District Court in Fairmont to make A. J. Boyle, operator of tracks at Charles Town and Waterford Park at Chester, to pay them $166,836.

Minimum 4 Per Cent

They say that is the difference plus 30 per cent, between what they received in purses during summer meetings at the two tracks and 4 per cent of the total bet. The West Virginia Racing Commission has a rule requiring a minimum of 4 per cent of the amount bet to be put up as prize money.

The Commission on Oct. 25 fined Charles Town $250 a day for not meeting the minimum and also rescinded the fall dates.

The commission also fined Boyle $250 a day for not having complied with its rule that all tracks must take motion pictures of all races.

The commission has not set the total amount of the fines definitely.

Shortly after the suit was filed in Fairmont, the State Racing Commission met here and voted again to enforce its 4 per cent purse rule.

The vote left an air of uncertainty around December race dates requested for the Charles Town Track. The new dates were requested by a partnership known as the Charles Town Turf Club.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boyle, major stockholders in the Charles Town Jockey Club Inc., are listed as partners of the new organization which contends it is succeeding the jockey club as operators of race meetings at Charles Town. They had asked for new race dates of Dec. 1-22.

Today's motion to keep the 4 per cent rule in force stipulated that the camera regulation would not be enforced for a reasonable period to give Charles Town time to install such facilities.

But the commission's action made it plain that the film patrol must be in operation before Charles Town and Waterford operators apply for any dates in the future—presumably any desired in 1957.

At Charles Town, activity indicates a December meeting will be held.

Oats planted on the racing strip more than a month ago were turned under and the track harrowed and made ready for racing about three weeks ago.

Hyndman High To Play In New Bedford County League

Hornets Will Appear In 26 Cage Games

McKinley Makes Bow As Coach; Opening Tilt Set Nov. 30

Hyndman High School's basketball team will play in the newly formed Bedford County League during the 1956-57 season, meeting Everett, Chestnut Ridge and Bedford in the home-and-home games, according to Charles F. Smith, publicity director for Hyndman - Londonderry High School.

Harry McKinley is the new cage mentor of the Hornets, succeeding Christ Stoner, who accepted the position of basketball coach at Somerset High School. McKinley is a graduate of Bedford High School and Lock Haven State Teachers College. Last year, he was basketball coach at Greenfield - Kimmel Township at Claysburg, Pa.

Hyndman will play a schedule of 26 games, opening with the Alumni on November 30. LaSalle, Mt. Savage, Oldtown, Paw Paw and the West Virginia School will be met in home-and-home games as will four Pennsylvania schools, Rockwood, Stoneycreek, Meyersdale and Robert Smith, in addition to the league contests and two tilts with the Alumni.

The Hornets won 15 and lost 11 last season. They whipped Forbes - Kantner of Somerset County for the Class C championship of District 5 and lost the inter-district playoff between Districts 6 and 5 to Williamsburg High of District 6.

Four lettermen are returning to the squad and they are: William Bruck, Donald R. Shaffer, Allen Ringler and Charles Twigg.

Carter, Johnson Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Harold Carter, a rising young heavyweight from Linden, N. J. takes on substitute Young Jack Johnson of Los Angeles tomorrow night in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden. Johnson is subbing for Bob Baker, forced off the show due to an attack of grippe.

The fight, scheduled for 10 p.m. EST, will be carried on network (NBC) radio and television.

Johnson is unranked among the heavies although he did stop Ezzard Charles, the former champion, last December in Los Angeles. His 23-fight record is 14-8-1 with a 2-3 record this year.

The National Boxing Assn. ranks Carter No. 7 and Ring magazine has him No. 6 on his 24-fight record of 20-2-2.

Calls 3 No-Hitters

NEW YORK (AP)—Babe Pinelli, who retired after umpiring 32 years in the National League, has worked behind the plate in three no-hit games involving the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The former Cincinnati infielder called balls and strikes when Ed Head of the Dodgers tossed his no-hitter against the Boston Braves in 1946, worked behind the plate when Rex Barney no-hit the Giants in 1948 and had the mask on when Don Larsen of the Yankees pitched his perfect game against the Dodgers in the fifth game of the 1956 World Series.

Majors, Crow, Hornung Fight For A-A Berths

Sooners' McDonald Hoping To Repeat

By BOB HOOBING
The Associated Press

Versatile and tireless efforts are keeping Johnny Majors, Paul Hornung and John Crow in the thick of the fight for All-America backfield honors.

His coach, Bowden Wyatt, says Johnny called a perfect game as the Vols beat Georgia Tech 6-0 last Saturday for which Majors was named Associated Press Back of the Week.

McDonald In Running

Oklahoma's Tommy McDonald, prime mover of the defending national champion Sooners who was an All-America halfback a year ago, is again tops in his field.

The latest reports from the AP All-America regional boards also list quarterback John Brodie of Stanford, halfbacks Jim Brown of Syracuse, Jim Crawford of Wyoming, Earnel Durden of Oregon State, Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma and fullbacks Paige Cothren of Mississippi, Jack Pardee of Texas A&M, C. R. Roberts of Southern California and Bill Barnes of Wake Forest in the front ranks.

The quarterback assignment at this stage of payoff games appears to have resolved itself into a contest between Hornung and Brodie.

Others Mentioned

Fullbacks — Jim Bakhtiar of Virginia and Sam Woolwine of VMI.

Quarterbacks — Jimmy Lugar of Virginia Tech.

Navy And Virginia May Attract 18,000

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP) — Navy's football team went through a light workout today and looked at movies in preparation for its meeting with Virginia Saturday.

On the field, the Middies spent a half hour on defense and a half hour on offense, then drilled for a short period on pass defense alone.

Hacker May Aid Redlegs Next Season

Facsimile Of 1952 Form Could Be Help

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs are doing their Christmas swapping early, possibly so they can get around to the exchange desk before the big crush.

Whether each club will keep all the men it received in the five-player deal is problematical, although there seems to be a good chance the Cubs will keep what they got. No matter what players might come their way they can exclaim happily: "Just what I needed!" In other words, they need just about everything.

Warren, Ray Key Men

We would say Warren Hacker and Ray Jablonski are the key men in the deal, with Don Hoak, Pete Whisenant and Elmer Singleton just the wrapper on the package.

And oddly enough both Hacker and Jablonski are rated the key men not on their performance this year, but on what they did in years past and on what their new clubs hope they will do again.

That may be a little like hoping that because a golfer shot a hole in one four years ago and hadn't done it since there was a good chance that he'd do it again next year.

The Reds were weak in two departments this year. They could have used more pitching, and the third base spot was filled only so-so. Jablonski got away to a good start there, but faded, and Alex Grammas, who took over the job, isn't rated a great hitter from either the power or average standpoint.

Hacker Could Help

Hacker, if he returned to even a reasonable facsimile of the form he showed in 1952, could be a big help. The Reds could have taken the pennant this year if they had one more pitcher good for 10 or 12 victories.

So Gabe Paul, who runs the Cincinnati store, has added a pitcher with potentialities to the roster. Although he gave up a third baseman he received one in return, so he won't be caught short there. He also has Grammas.

Midafternoon Takes Feature, New York Racing Season Ends

$381,627,644 Bet During 196 Days

JAMAICA, N. Y., Nov. 15 — A crowd of 32,171 bid farewell to thoroughbred racing in New York for the year and in doing so picked a winning favorite in the featured $28,700 Display Handicap in Mrs. Edward E. Robbins' Midafternoon.

Ridden by Eddie Arcaro the four-year-old son of Billings turned back nine other handicap performers in the two mile and a sixteenth event, which was the last and longest of the 86 stakes events run on the 196-day New York racing calendar. Midafternoon was the $5.20 choice with the getaway day crowd and finished five and a half lengths ahead of Christiana Stable's Thinking Cap to set a new track record of 3:29 3/5 for the marathon distance.

Cain Hoy Stable's Brightest Star was third, a length and a half back of Thinking Cap and four and a half lengths ahead of Rock Cottage, owned by A. J. Messler, who had won the first running of the display in 1955 with War Command.

Midafternoon, conqueror of Nashua in the Metropolitan Handicap, had run up a skein of five straight at that time but Nashua came back and whipped the bay colt in the Suburban Handicap on July 4. Since that day Midafternoon had not been in race until the closing event of the local season.

The Display was the third stakes of the year for Midafternoon who also had taken the Massachusetts Handicap this spring. The net purse of $19,650 brought the home-bred colt's earnings for the year to $153,575.

The day's mutuel handle of $3,397,057 brought the unofficial total for the 196 days of sport in New York to $381,627,644 bet by crowds of 4,380,350. The attendance was up 2.1 per cent over last season and the handle exceeded 1955 by 7.2? per cent.

Boland Injured, Horse Collapses In Jamaica Race

Boland's mount bled and fell at the head of the stretch. Islander had been in the thick of contention but Boland, aware that he was on a faltering horse, steered to the outside to avert a pile-up. The jockey hit the ground with the horse.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 15 (AP)—Former world's tennis queen Maureen Connolly, 22, said today she and her husband, Norman Brinker, 26, are expecting a baby sometime in May.

Archers Kill 67 Deer In Maryland, Harford Has 22

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—Sixty-seven deer were killed in Maryland by archers during the bow-and-arrow open season from Nov. 1 until sundown yesterday, the State Game and Inland Fish Commission reported today.

Harford County, with 22 kills, and Frederick County, with 17, were the big leaders. Others, in succession, were Worcester, 9; Baltimore 6; Dorchester and Washington, 5 each; Wicomico, 2, and Calvert, 1.

Only one casualty to a hunter was reported. One archer accidentally shot himself in the thigh when he stumbled while carrying the bow ready to shoot.

Great taste—great whiskey. No Manhattan tastes quite like a Manhattan made with Calvert Reserve. People with an instinct for the finest insist on smoother, flavorful Calvert. It's the American whiskey of good taste that's always in good taste. Great on-the-rocks, too!

Here's how to make a Calvert Manhattan: Pour 3 parts Calvert, 1 part sweet vermouth over ice cubes in mixing glass. Add dash bitters, stir, strain into cocktail glass. Add cherry.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15 (INS)—Every studio in the business offered Eva Marie Saint a contract but she turned them all down. It was Buddy Adler who finally persuaded her to sign a three picture deal, non-exclusive, with 20th.

The bait Buddy held out was "A Hatful of Rain," the Michael Gazzo play which starred Shelley Winters and Ben Gazzaro on Broadway. Eva Marie will play the Shelley role, of course, and she will have Fred Zinnemann as her director. Eva Marie will be very good as the wife, so torn and so unhappy over her husband's addiction to narcotics.

The husband will be portrayed by Don Murray, who made his debut with Marilyn Monroe in "Bus Stop." He's one of the hottest properties on the 20th lot.

Tomorrow Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer fly from Paris to London for the premiere of "War and Peace." They accepted with the stipulation that they can personally take up a collection from the audience at intermission to aid the Hungarian war relief and Hungarian Red Cross.

Mel contacted the lord mayor of London, who will appear on the stage during the picture's break and make an appeal for funds before Audrey and Mel walk through the audience and collect the donations.

"Love in the Afternoon" won't wind up until early December. Since a member of the company was killed, Audrey goes from the studio to her hotel with guards, and Allied Artists is taking a daily quota of plane reservations to evacuate personnel to the USA if the threatening war situation becomes worse.

Felicia Farr is such a knockout in looks (and talent) I was beginning to wonder why Columbia was loaning her out so often, for instance to 20th for "The Last Wagon," and to other studios.

But Felicia comes home, and I bet to stay, as Glenn Ford's leading lady in "Three-Ten to Yuma." This is something in the nature of a reunion for Glenn, Felicia and Director Delmar Daves as Felicia's first important role was with Ford in "Jubal" with Daves directing.

As the new year approaches and the time for production is nigh, I'd like to jump the gun and predict that 1957 will be a Felicia Farr year. This girl is going places in a big way.

The flattering wire Red Skelton received from Clark Gable after Red's appearance in a straight dramatic role in "The Big Slide" on Playhouse 90 is practically worn out. Red is so delighted at Clark's praise that he shows the wire to everyone he meets.

Red was really excellent in this serious role of the rise and fall of a movie comedian. He's now listening to an offer from Batjac, the John Wayne Company, to make a motion picture of "The Big Slide."

Pier Angeli and Vic Damone have a date with the stork. This will be their second child.

Natalie Wood, so hoarse she could hardly speak, called to say she was at the Santa Ynez Inn with Bob Vaughn, young actor, and Dennis Hopper brought John Ireland over and introduced her. And that's all there ever was, or or ever will be, to her going out with Ireland.

Sympathy goes to Jayne Meadows and Steve Allen, who lost their expected baby.

There was a big turnout for Sarah Vaughan's opening at the Mocambo with one of the biggest parties given by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Stoloff.

Oscar Homolka, who is so sensational as the Russian general in "War and Peace," is in town for a few days. He's had two or three movie offers but he hasn't made up his mind.

Perc Westmore, who was in Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital for a checkup, comes home tomorrow. Mrs. Westmore (Ola Carroll) has opene' a boutique in their beauty salon and it's the last gasp.

Bill Howard writes from Baltimore that he's with his mother in Pikesville, Maryland, and couldn't attend Dorothy Lamour's opening at the Versailles in New York tonight.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Don't talk about your dieting — it's really not very interesting to anyone but you.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Quiet Diet

"Jean lost twelve pounds and didn't say a word about it!", I heard a young woman near me in a restaurant exclaim to her companion.

I'll bet she didn't have to—her improved figure published the news as no mention of it could. And I'm pretty sure of something else—that Jean is a sensible and charming girl. It's a credit to her that she spared her friends a blow-by-blow account of her weight losing. No matter how interesting a topic reducing is, it can get very tiresome if it isn't your own.

The wrong kind of weight losing is the most difficult to keep to yourself. If you feel hungry all the time, you can't forget it. But if your diet is planned correctly, it isn't a starvation ration, and you feel so much better for it as you go along. If you follow it faithfully, you're eating with a new technical skill and one that creates superior health and vitality as the pounds fade away.

I can't say exactly that the Powers experts were thinking about quieting dieting when they formulated our Beauty Diet, which is outlined in a booklet by the same name that we'll send you for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me at this newspaper. But I know the low calorie meals you'll eat as you follow it are well calculated to keep you well satisfied as you lose—and thus you won't have reducing too much on your mind.

You'll lose two pounds a week and perhaps a little more, a safe and healthy rate. You won't become a sylph overnight, but you'll make it to the exact notch you want to reach on the scale. And it's a whole lot better if your nice new figure seems to come as a surprise to your friends. They'll be much more impressed with it and with you if they haven't heard too much about it along the way.

Tomorrow—Timely tips.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of diamonds.

Opportunities for a safety play designed to protect a contract from badly breaking suits frequently present themselves but are overlooked because of a fear that the reasoning is too complicated. But the solution usually becomes simpler if the player will stop to ask himself, "What holdings do I fear?"

The bidding was purely routine. The six of diamonds was opened and the king went to South's ace. Obviously, the club suit must be developed since the other suits will yield only six tricks. If declarer had taken the club finesse in routine manner, he would have lost the hand, since the diamonds would have been cleared while West still held a stopper in declarer's long suit. But declarer stopped to visualize the possible pitfalls. If clubs were 3-2 there was no possible way to lose the split in that suit. If East has four clubs it is immaterial how declarer plays the suit, since East must win two tricks in the suit. However, the contract will be safe, since declarer will hold up one round of diamonds, and when East wins his second club trick he will have no more diamonds to return.

Now if West has four clubs, including the king, he must win two tricks even if the finesse is taken, but again the contract is safe, since when he wins his first club trick he will not be in a position to continue diamonds without giving declarer an additional trick. The only holding, therefore, that will defeat the contract is a singleton king in East's hand (assuming declarer takes the finesse) because in that case declared would lose his first club trick at the wrong time, that is when his diamond suit was subject to attack.

On this line of reasoning it was simple for declarer to play the ace of clubs first. The fall of the king was a fortuitous event that was no part of the hand. He need, therefore, concern himself only with the 4-1 plan. It was not necessary to declarer's success, but it did result in his making an overtrick.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be conducted by guest writers. Today's contributor is George Gobel.)

I've been asked to make a few remarks on humor, and I suppose the reason for this request is that I've spent some years in the night club circuit as well as a few seasons dragging my feet in the sandtrap of television comedy.

To begin at the very beginning, one should ask: What is humor? Webster says: "Humor is the mental faculty of discovering, expressing or appreciating ludicrous or absurdly incongruous elements." And all I've got to say is, with that kind of material, it's a good thing Webster never had to do four shows a night at the Kenosha Kayudle Club. After one performance, he'd have been thrown out in the street with all his infinitives split.

The fact is that no two people agree on what humor is. What's funny to me may not be funny to my wife. Come to think of it, you can write that down as a law. And it's not that Alice and I don't see eye to eye on most subjects. It's just that her laugh track is not attuned to my wave length. Things that amuse me leave her as cold as a headwaiter's stare. F'rinstance, just the other day Alice and I walked into a bakery, and for a minute or so no one was there to wait on us; then the sales girl came out of the back room, looked at us and said. "Are you two together?"

"Yes," I said to the girl, "for the time being we're together, but you never know what tomorrow will bring."

Now, I thought it was kind of cute the way I got that off, but do you think that Alice would crack a smile? Heck, no.

Actually, the way people react to humor can be compared to how people react to paintings. It depends pretty much on what they bring to it. I've entertained at places where people brought nothing to the performance except their knitting. By the same token, I've also appeared at places where the audience was so keyed up that they laughed almost before I could begin talking. Once, in a small town in Northern Illinois, I had such an enthusiastic audience that it was an hour before I could start my act. Once I got into my routines, though, they got out their darning needles and quieted down.

But I digress. The question that faces us is: What are the main ingredients that make up the big chocolate cake of humor? Well, sir—first and foremost, you need a sly observation on the boibles of man. Next, you set this observation against the meaning of life. Then you set both of these observations against a third observation on the pettines of woman. All you need now is a joke. In fact, if you've got a good joke, you don't hardly need any of the observations.

Of course, even when you have a good joke you can't always use it. Especially on television. And the reason is that you might offend some person or group. That's one of the big problems of our time: controversial humor. Take politics, f'instance. If you kid the Republicans, you're going to make enemies of the Democrats. And if you kid the Democrats, you're going to make vice-versa of the Republicans. You may not believe this, but I recently got a letter of protest for making a joke about the Greenback party. The letter was attached to three large greenbacks—a 2½ dollar bill, a 7 dollar bill, and a 9 dollar bill—and it read: "Shorty, don't be runnin' down us Greenbackers just becuz we got our own ideas about a currency system."

Another time I got called down for making a joke about doctors. It wasn't really a joke. All I did was read a book title that I had seen on a magazine stand. The title of the book was: "None but the Noble." And the subtitle was: "The Heartwarming Story of a Doctor Whose Fees Proved To Be Higher than His Ideals."

But in spite of these few drawbacks, television has done much to foster the spread of humor. It has given birth to the funny commercial wherein beer cans dance, cereal boxes turn themselves inside out, and automobile salesman just talk naturally. Television has also brought back such humorous giants of the past as Popeye the Sailor, Betty Boop and Harry Owens.

And so it is that we've come full circle in our humor seminar. Again we pose the question: What is humor? Well, sir, when you boil it all down—from the point of view of the comedian in front of an audience—this is what humor really is: It's all them people out there laughing at you.

Extra Busses For Shoppers

The Cumberland Transit Lines, Inc. will increase service on some of its lines to aid the shoppers during the pre-holiday season. Service will be added during the period when downtown stores start to remain open in the evenings. This is being done to stimulate patronage of the bus lines plus attempting to relieve some of the congestion that exists down town during the peak shopping hours.

The Cumberland Transit Lines, Inc. is making every effort to give the people of Cumberland the service it should have. By the added service at this time it will give a better picture as to the wants of the Public. It is the belief of the Company officials that the safety and convenience of riding the bus plus the added patronage at this time will have much bearing on the future service to be given by the Company.

Only 12 Farmers Submit Ballots

Only 12 of the 800 Allegany County farmers mailed ballots in the election of three members of the Board of Supervisors in the Allegany County Soil Conservation District have returned their ballots to the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

The candidates are Floyd Buser, Estel Hennen, D. T. Puffinberger, Granville Shumaker and Ernest Slider. Buser, Puffinberger and Slider are now serving as supervisors.

Ballots must be returned on or before November 27, when they will be counted.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Q O C V L F C C V G R C V V X S J V R B Y - Y K G S K Q Q O C V L F C C V G R — V L V G R K C.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: BUT EVIL IS WROUGHT BY WANT OF THOUGHT, AS WELL AS WANT OF HEART—HOOD.

Mt. Savage Man Pilot In Plane Crash

21 Passengers Escape Death Near Denver

A Mt. Savage man was pilot and commander of the multi-million-dollar B-36 Air Force bomber which crash-landed and burned yesterday near Denver, Colo., with 21 airmen aboard. He is Capt. Regis P. Powers, 32.

All of the passengers and crew escaped death, but were hospitalized. One of the airmen, identified as M/Sgt. Oliver Weybright, 34, of Rapid City, S. D., had a fractured skull and was reported in "serious" condition at Lowry Air Force Base Hospital in Denver.

Captain Powers was reported to have suffered a head injury in the crash. His mother, Mrs. Mary V. Powers of Mt. Savage, talked by phone with his wife, the former Patricia Thompson of Washington, now residing with her husband in Rapid City and Mrs. Powers said the captain was "all right."

Chose To Crash-Land

Eyewitnesses said it appeared that Captain Powers obviously decided not to risk a low flight in the crippled plane over a residential area about a mile from the crash area, and belly-landed it in an open field on the Rocky Mountain Arsenal Reservation northeast of Denver.

The huge 10-engine Strategic Air Command plane met difficulty within minutes after departing from Lowry AF Base at 6:29 a. m. (MST) on what was to be a flight to its home base at Ellsworth AFB, Rapid City.

Captain Powers, who radioed Lowry officials that he was attempting to return to either Lowry or land at the Denver Municipal Airport, learned he did not have enough altitude, and crash landed.

Skidding over the ground, the B-36 with six propellor engines and four jet engines, broke into several sections and burned. The occupants scrambled to safety.

The plane sheared off several power poles and cut off electricity to a part of East Denver. A dense pillar of black smoke was visible as far away as Boulder, over 40 miles away.

One Bails Out

One crewman bailed out by parachute a few moments before the emergency landing, while another, identified as Weybright, was trapped in the plane until he was cut out by firefighting and rescue crews from the base.

A native of Mt. Savage, Captain Powers graduated from St. Patrick's Parochial School in that community and also from Allegany High School here.

He has been in the Air Force since the beginning of World War II. The last time he was home was three years ago, when his father, the late James P. Powers, died on December 14, 1953.

Captain Powers has three other brothers in the service, Lt. Col. William Powers, stationed in Germany, S/Sgt. Richard Powers, stationed in England, and S/Sgt. James V. Powers, Andrews Air Force Base in Washington, D. C.

Pilot Hospitalized

Capt. Regis P. Powers, 32, of Mt. Savage, pilot of the B-36 which crashed yesterday morning near Denver, Colo., with 21 aboard, is shown above being wheeled into a room at Lowry Air Force Base hospital in Denver. The corpsman is unidentified. Captain Powers was reported to have sustained a head injury in the crash. The crew and passengers all escaped death in the spectacular belly-landing which occurred minutes after the huge plane took off from Denver headed toward Ellsworth AF Base, in Rapid City, S. D.

Student Finalists Named In Jaycee Speech Event

The student of Allegany County public and parochial schools who will represent this section of Western Maryland in the "I Speak for Democracy" state finals next month will be chosen Sunday afternoon at Radio Station WCUM.

Eldred W. Steinmann, chairman of the event sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, said the program will begin at 2 p.m.

Entrants from 11 schools will vie in the contest, Steinmann said.

They are Linda Travis, St. Mary's; Rose Marie Condry, Ursuline; Dorothy Vose, Allegany; Paul Stakem, LaSalle; Stanley Oldaker, Fort Hill; Lois Sweitzer, Beall; Roberta Lashley, Mt. Savage; Carol Eaton, Bruce, Westernport; Harry E. Welsh, St. Peter's, Westernport, and George Wolfe, Oldtown.

Valley High School will select its winner today at an assembly program. All the schools conducted an elimination contest to choose representatives.

Judges for the finals will be R. Bowen Hardesty, Lewyn C. Davis, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, Mrs. G. Morgan Smith and William Eisenberg.

School Board Will Attend State Meeting

All five members of the Allegany County Board of Education are planning to attend the annual meeting of the State Board of Education with the 23 county Boards of Education at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore Monday, December 10.

Superintendent of Schols Ralph R. Webster outlined the day's program at the monthly meeting of the County Board of Education Tuesday.

Greetings will be extended by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and Wendell D. Allen, president of the State Board of Education.

Dr. Marvin Buchell, president of the York (Pa.) Junior College, will deliver the keynote address on the public junior college. Maryland now has two of them, one in Montgomery County and the other in Hagerstown.

After luncheon the group will be divided into six small working groups. Their topics for discussion will be (1) building of schools and acquisition of land, (2) use of schools by outside agencies, (3) teacher certification, (4) the local board's responsibility for keeping the public informed, (5) financing junior colleges and (6) the philosophy and program of the junior college. It is hoped to have a consultant for each group.

Rotarians To Hear Thanksgiving Talk

Dr. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, will speak at the meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday at Central YMCA.

"The Habit of Thanksgiving" will be Dr. Amoss' topic. He will discuss the historic background of Thanksgiving and its importance.

Methodist Youth Rally Deferred Until November 29

The monthly rally for the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Cumberland Subdistrict has been changed to November 29 at Cresaptown Methodist Church.

This change is necessary because of the Thanksgiving holiday and to make way for the appearance of the Westminster Seminary Choir here in the month of January.

The November rally will be of a recreational nature with each of the church youth groups to make a contribution. The seminary singers appearance here will be co-sponsored by the Cumberland Subdistrict Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Methodist churches of the subdistrict.

Legislators To Meet With SRC Workers

Allegany County legislators have scheduled a meeting with a committee of State Roads Commission employes November 30 at 8 p.m.

The hearing will be held in the Union Street county building by State Senator Charles M. See and the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

Compensation Revision Plan Is Advocated

Tempers Flare Over Armory Site Query

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Legislative Council wound up its 1956 meetings today moments after adopting a proposal to revamp administration of the Maryland workmen's compensation laws.

Submitted by a special committee under Baltimore lawyer W. Albert Menchine, the proposal would substitute a group to be known as the Workmen's Compensation Commission for the present State Industrial Accident Commission.

The new commissioners would serve for 10 to 15 years instead of 2 to 6 years and would be paid $14,000 to $14,500 a year instead of $6,000 to $6,500. They still would be appointed by the governor.

In approving the recommendations, the council cleared the way for their introduction as bills on the first day of the 1957 General Assembly.

Adopt Report

The Industrial Accident Commission, now headed by Melvin E. Fine, was created in 1914 to receive, investigate and settle contested claims for compensation resulting from workers' accidents. It also investigates companies which fail to carry accident insurance required by law.

The council, which screens legislative proposals when the Legislature is not in session, adopted the Menchine Committee proposal on a voice vote after a minimum of debate.

Supporters of the move contend the duties of the commission have multiplied in recent years to such an extent they can no longer be performed on a part-time basis. The workload, they add, has resulted in a huge backlog of cases requiring full - time attention to make certain injured workers without other means of support receive prompt settlement of their claims.

In one of the few heated moments since the council began its meetings last spring, State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles came in for sharp criticism today from Sen. Louis L. Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Del. Jerome Robinson (D-Balto.-4th).

Criticize Board

Goldstein, president of the council, called Miles "autocratic" and Robinson referred to the treasurer and other members of the Board of Public Works as "obtuse gentlemen" who "insult the intelligence" of the council.

The remarks came during an appearance by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant general.

County Air Strip Plan Proposed

A proposal for establishing air strips in all of Maryland's counties was outlined to the Legislative Council Wednesday by the State Aviation Commission.

George R. Hughes Jr., minority leader of the House, said the plan called for 50 per cent of the cost of the strip to be paid by the federal government, 25 per cent by the state and the other 25 by the county or city involved.

The plan called for the construction of 4,000-foot landing strips and the acquisition of land enough to later extend them to 10,000 feet.

The plan was outlined by Charles B. Allen, chairman of the commission, who said federal funds are available for matching purposes.

Del. Hughes said the plan would not affect Allegany County, which is served by the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

He said the first strip will probably be built in Ocean City if enabling legislation is passed by the 1957 General Assembly.

Colder Weather Forecast Today

The weatherman seems to think that the summer-like weather enjoyed in Cumberland and area for the two past days will come to a halt today, with promises of cloudy skies, scattered showers and wind.

And it may turn colder this evening. Such weather also is forecast for the immediate area of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Getting back to the almost perfect weather of yesterday, the temperature rose to an official high of 77 degrees, according to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park. The official low was 39.

Dance Is Planned

Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club will hold a pre-Thanksgiving round and square dance next Wednesday night.

Invitations to the free dance are being extended to Shriners and their friends.

Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to midnight, with music by Jake Wilson's orchestra.

Plant's Improved Dishwasher

Charles E. Jones, left, Amcelle plant cafeteria chef, left, and William Wilmouth, cafeteria manager, examine glasses which have just passed through the dishwasher. It contains an electronic device which controls the alkalinity of the washing water and maintains the detergency of the washing compound at a constant level. In the rinsing compartment is another electronic device which assures that conditions are proper to produce clean, sparkling tableware. Wiping is eliminated and everything dries spot free.

Amcelle Gets Its Cafeteria Modernized

Employes at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation of America will see the completely modernized plant cafeteria for the first time November 19.

Through cooperation of cafeteria employes and patrons it has been possible to proceed with the modernization without closing the cafeteria. Regular patrons have witnessed the step-by-step transformation of an outdated dining facility to a modern, well-equipped one which provides for efficiency in an attractive setting.

The serving line has been redesigned to make food handling easier and quicker. A reach-through refrigerator and hot roll storage drawers are included among the new serving line equipment.

Scheduled for installation by Monday are 68 two-pedestal plastic-topped tables. Also being provided are 272 new chairs and gold-colored draperies woven from Celanese yarn. Seventy-five gallons of paint were required to complete the interior decorating scheme.

The dishwasher, originally fabricated by Amcelle's own sheet metal shop, was moved to a specially-designed room near the cafeteria exit. Its location facilitates the new practice of self-bussing which is to be instituted Monday. This system will mean that tables are clean and ready for occupancy at all times.

The cafeteria is open nine-and-one-half hours each day to serve all three shifts. Almost 1,200 employes use the cafeteria each day.

This decision to improve cafeteria facilities and the success of the project have resulted from the cooperative effort by Celantile Workers of America, emese employes, officers of the Texployes working on the project and patrons of the cafeteria, said R. Finley Thompson, plant manager.

Pinto Church Plans Special Program

The Woodridge Mennonite Church, Washington, D. C., will conduct a program Sunday at 7 p. m. at Pinto Mennonite Church, Rev. John Martin, pastor announced.

The program will consist of a children's corner, two singing groups and a sermon by Rev. Martin.

Local Civic Symphony Will Play Tuesday Night

Now that the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra has presented its concert at the Fort Hill High School auditorium, Tri-State area residents interested in classical music will have a second opportunity to hear a concert.

Starting its 11th consecutive season, the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra will present the first of three concerts at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Allegany High School auditorium.

Vocal musicians may sing in church choirs or the Cumberland Choral Society. Those who play band instruments may perform with the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band, community bands in Frostburg and Lonaconing or one of a number of drum and bugle corps.

For the first time this year the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra is selling tickets to its concert. Previously, the funds were derived from a voluntary collection during intermission. Tickets are on sale at Sykes Music Store and the S. T. Little Jewelry Company. Members of the Men of Emmanuel of Emmanuel Episcopal Church also have them.

Sewage Plant 94 Per Cent Completed

Work on Cumberland's sewage treatment plant is 94 per cent complete and about on schedule, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves

Work done and materials and equipment installed on the primary sewage treatment unit amounted to about 88 per cent of the $1,531,000 contract price, and the other six per cent represented equipment and materials stored on the site.

During October, the contractor was held up only one day by rain, and work proceeded on schedule. Accomplishments, chiefly finishing tasks, represented about two per cent of the total job, which is slated for completion in March.

One crew of the Moyer Brothers Company laid about 90 yards of stone paving on the levees which will protect the 10-acre site from Potomac River floods.

Concrete work on the grit and comminutor station was completed as crews continued the installation of grit collecting, comminuting and grit ejecting equipment.

Monorail support piers for the sludge beds were poured and the beds were graded after tile underdrains were laid and the first layer of gravel placed.

October also saw the end of laying of a 54-inch reinforced concrete pipe between the overflow chamber and an existing sewer, and this job was finished except for connections.

Also completed was the laying of a 30-inch line between the main sewage pumping station and the north levee, and three fuel oil tanks were installed on the plant site.

Good progress was being made on painting and rough grading of the site was completed, Mayor Eves said.

Reservoir Repairs Set

All of the cracks discovered are on the upper courses, which are subject to freezing and thawing.

He said a fine job is being done and that the delphinium blue paint on the concrete posts and white on the wooden surfaces is very effective.

Cost, other than labor, is negligible, he said, since wood for the fence comes from trees cut down on the watershed of Lakes Koon and Gordon.

Canadians Get License To Wed

There was an international incident at the Allegany County Court House yesterday.

John Henry Carr and Bernice Fleming, both of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, obtained a marriage license at the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

90 Teachers Will Discuss Leadership

Annual Institute Set For Tomorrow

About 90 teachers are scheduled to attend the second annual leadership training institute sponsored by the Allegany County Teachers Association tomorrow at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Harry Poole, state director for the National Education Association, will address the teachers at 10:05 a.m. following registration, which begins at 9:30 a.m.

After lunch the teachers will participate in three discussion groups. Robert E. Moore, who is in charge of public relations at the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, will be consultant for the discussion on community relations.

Rizer, Sheeley Chairmen

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer will be chairman of this group and his co-chairman will be Frederick H. Sheeley, a visiting teacher in the pupil personnel department.

How can teachers best keep the people informed about the current needs of the school program? That is one of the principal questions to be answered in this community relations discussion.

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the State Teachers Association, will serve as consultant for a group discussion on teacher welfare. The chief purpose of this discussion will be to determine what the teachers' professional organizations can do to secure and maintain an adequate retirement program.

Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, will be chairman of this group. John C. Metzger, a teacher at Mt. Savage High School, will be co-chairman.

Leadership Discussion

In the third discussion, on professional leadership, the chief topic will concern the responsibility and obligation of each teacher toward his professional organization. John B. Kelly, immediate past president of the Teachers Association and a teacher at Beall High School, will be chairman of this group. Miss Marian Bevans, a teacher at Mt. Savage Elementary School, will serve as co-chairman.

Consultant for the professional leadership group will be Willis White, state supervisor of high schools.

Fire Scorches Five Acres Of Woodland

Two area volunteer fire companies and a forestry department crew fought a stubborn blaze yesterday afternoon which scorched about five acres of woodland in the vicinity of Potomac Park.

Firemen said a resident of the area was burning leaves and the fire got out of control. Volunteer firemen from Cresaptown and Bowling Green were armed with rakes and Indian pumps to combat the flames.

Shortly after they arrived on the scene a crew of forestry workers headed by Brooke Bodkin, senior forest supervisor, also went into action. The foresters were still in the vicinity last night making sure the fire was out.

The volunteer firemen of Cresaptown, according to Chief Arthur Winters, received a call at 5:10 p. m. and fought the blaze for over an hour.

That company and Bowling Green left the area about 6:20 p. m. and reported back to their stations. During the height of the blaze one building, constructed of metal, was threatened.

The fire was confined to property located in the vicinity of Potomac Park to the rear of the Amcelle Tavern. Bodkin said the fire yesterday was the first reported in the district for some time.
